500
festival
events

STROUDSBURG — Due to the last few days of rain-fall, a revised schedule of events for the Schaefer 500 at Pocono Festival has been prepared. Time trials have been changed to Thursday, June 29 and Friday, June 30 and other changes have been based upon this. Most events will continue as planned:

Monday, June 26 — Le Chateau "500" Celebrity Pro-Am Golf Tournament; 7:30 p.m. Celebrity Tournament Award Dinner. Race Drivers will be guests for a "first of its kind roasting banquet" in the Poconos at Le Chateau Inn & Country Club.

Tuesday, June 27 — Carbon County Day. Laurel Blossom Day (still on); Pocono Downs Night for the Festival.

Wednesday, June 28 — Tours for drivers wives (as planned); 12:30 p.m., Fashion Show luncheon, Sheraton Pocono Inn (will be as planned); 7 p.m., the Race Against Hemophilia, Allentown (This was changed from last Wednesday and will be held at Kulmsville, Pa. by the Lehigh Valley Quarter Midget Racing Club); 8 p.m. Theater night, Camelback Summer Theater.

Thursday, June 29 — First Day of Time Trials; 10 a.m., Ladies Festival Golf Tournament, Pocono Manor Inn (as scheduled); 7 p.m., Coronation Ball, Pocono Manor Inn, will go on as planned.

Friday, June 30 — Second Day of Time Trials; Bavarian Festival Day, Barnesville, Pa.; Lehman Horse Show, Lehman Fair Grounds.

Saturday, July 1 — 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., rides around the track by Race Drivers, (Open to the public — changed from Friday, June 30th), benefit of the Monroe County Hospital; 1 p.m., drivers meeting, Pocono International Raceway; Lehman Horse Show, Lehman Fair Grounds, Pa.

Sunday, July 2 — Second Annual Schaefer 500 at Pocono, 1 p.m., after a full morning of pre-Race activities, bands, parades and entertainment.

Monday, July 3 — 11 a.m., Victory Brunch, Mount Airy Lodge; Lehman Horse Show.

Pennsylvania floods kill 30

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — At least 30 persons were known dead and as many as 200,000 were believed homeless Friday as four days of heavy rain from tropical storm Agnes pushed Pennsylvania's rivers and streams to record heights from one end of the state to the other.

Harrisburg, where the raging Susquehanna River was pushing toward the downtown section at the rate of a city block every two hours. It was already the worst flood that Harrisburg, with a population of more than 73,000, had ever known.

President Nixon declared Pennsylvania a major disaster area earlier Friday at the request of Gov. Milton J. Shapp, who estimated that damages would exceed $1 billion. Shapp flew over the Susquehanna River basin and reported scores of major cities and small towns flooded.

"The best way I can describe what we saw is a long, wide ribbon of destruction along the river," said Shapp, whose governor's mansion here was flooded. "The water covered homes, factories, farms, railroads, churches."

Predictions by Lt. Gov. Ernest P. Kline that the "worst is yet to come" were dramatized Friday night by Harrisburg engineers, some of them in boats, who marked buildings, utility poles and other stationary objects with yellow chalk. The chalk marks indicated the river's expected height at its crest of 35.5 feet at 8 p.m. today.

The Susquehanna River cities of Wilkes-Barre and Kingston were ordered evacuated earlier Friday and it was estimated that 100,000 persons in the two cities and their environs had fled their homes. More than 5,000 Harrisburg residents had evacuated their homes by Friday night.

Squads of local police, reinforced by state troopers, patrolled evacuated portions of Harrisburg in boats to prevent looting but their efforts were hampered by a lack of electricity everywhere but at the partially flooded Capitol.

Half of Pennsylvania's National Guardsmen were activated by Friday and most were involved in rescue missions. Thirty military helicopters shuttled survivors from rural areas where the death toll might not be known for days.

Bell Telephone Co. estimated 30,000 telephones were out of order throughout central Pennsylvania and that it might be days before service could be restored.

Harrisburg Hospital, which overlooks the Susquehanna, was partially flooded and switched to emergency power at 7:30 a.m. Friday.

Adding to the chaotic conditions in Harrisburg was a fire that destroyed a block of homes near the governor's mansion. Firemen watched helplessly from rowboats as the flames consumed the houses, from which families were evacuated earlier.

Thousands of other persons were forced from their homes in York, Lykens, Eldred, Tyrone, Uniontown, Latrobe, Williamsport, Lock Haven, Lewisburg, Sunbury, Selinsgrove, Derry, and a multitude of smaller communities where normal placid streams turned into raging rivers.

Swirling, muddy water covered the first floor of the $2.4 million Georgian-style governor's mansion built four years ago on a three-acre plot overlooking a normally beautiful stretch of the Susquehanna River. Only about a foot of the mansion's front doors were above water.

The state's two major population centers at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh apparently were spared, although areas near the two cities experienced damaging floods. Communities along the Schuylkill River flowing into Philadelphia were hard hit.

About 150 large pleasure boats were washed away from a suburban Pittsburgh marina on the Allegheny River and splintered as they dropped over a dam. The marina estimated the damage at more than $5 million.

At Pittsburgh, where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers meet to form the Ohio River, the river stage rose above flood levels to an expected crest of 35 feet, 10 feet above flood stage, at 8 a.m., EDT, today.

However, no major flooding was expected in Pittsburgh. A network of flood control dams was built on the rivers following the great St. Patrick's Day Flood of 1936.

Inundation most extensive ever

By United Press International

The greatest floods in U. S. history devastated the East Coast Friday from North Carolina to New York. President Nixon declared five states disaster areas as unprecedented flood crests killed scores of persons and caused more than $1 billion in damages.

The great rivers of the east, swollen with the rains of Tropical Storm Agnes, flowed at levels scientists said had never been before recorded and might not be equalled for centuries.

Agnes had left at least 79 dead in her lumbering march from Cuba through Florida and the Carolinas to New York State. A quarter of a million persons fled their homes.

In Virginia, the swollen James River flowed at a rate scientists said would not be equalled for 400 years. In Washington, the mighty Potomac rose toward a record crest.

Even as Nixon ordered the disaster designation for Florida, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York and Virginia, more rain was forecast for parts of those states and West Virginia.

"We believe the flooding from the Gulf Coast to New York is the most extensive in the country's history," said Dr. Robert White, head of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. "It is certainly the largest flood of record."

Across the rich farm land of southwest New York State, three cities and dozens of hamlets and villages were ordered evacuated. State police, National Guardsmen and "non-violent" prisoners freed temporarily joined thousands of volunteer and civil defense workers.

A dam broke in Elmira, N. Y., forcing 26,000 persons to flee. The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers opened the flood gates at Mount Morris Dam in New York, and a volume of water equal to that of Niagara Falls' American Falls thundered over the spillways.

The action intentionally flooded a 35-mile stretch of lowland adjacent to the Genesee River, and state police ordered it evacuated.

Nixon calls emergency

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon Friday declared the five states hit hardest by flooding from tropical storm Agnes to be major disaster areas.

The White House said preliminary estimates of damage to public and private property in Florida, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York and Virginia would total hundreds of millions of dollars.

The White House announcement, made as Nixon prepared to fly to Camp David, Md., for the weekend, said Gen. George Lincoln, the director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP), also had been instructed to render all appropriate aid to the District of Columbia.

Shapp tours disaster area

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Gov. Milton J. Shapp described the damage from Hurricane Agnes as a "long wide ribbon of destruction" in Pennsylvania.

The governor and federal officials toured the flood-ravaged areas by helicopter Friday before President Nixon agreed to declare the state a major disaster area.

Shapp, Frank Carney, regional director of the Office of Emergency Planning in Philadelphia, and Richard Sanderson, OEP's federal coordinator for floods, flew from the Capitol 40 miles north to Selinsgrove, east to Lykens and then back to the Capitol.

From the air, the north side of the capital appeared hardest hit. Water up to 10 feet covered the entire area. A fire raged out of control in one entire block and had spread to the other side of the street.

The fire was only a block away from the governor's mansion. State police guarding the inside of the mansion were standing on top of the desks by mid-morning. The only way the governor could get there was by boat.

North of the city, roadside gas stations and restaurants were under water. The top of the McDonald's arches and the Howard Johnson orange roof were the only signs that buildings existed in one section.

On the south side, a massive Bethlehem Steel complex, which stretches along the river for several miles, was covered to the rooftops.

Along the river's banks, every home within 100 yards of the normal shoreline appeared heavily damaged. Waterfalls were cascading down the steep banks adjacent to Rte. 322 on the east side and Rte. 15 on the west.

In Lykens, where a dam broke Thursday sending millions of gallons of water surging through the city streets, churning rapids carried mobile homes, cars and walls of houses away from the tiny community.

Young, old killed

Floods didn't pick victims

By United Press International

A baby girl swept by fast-moving waters from the arms of her father, an Amishman and his 10-month-old son whose buggy was carried into a rain-swollen creek, a policeman in Philadelphia and a public safety director in Union County, attempting rescue operations.

Those were some of the victims of the raging flood waters that struck throughout Pennsylvania in the wake of tropical storm Agnes, killing at least 30 persons.

The baby daughter of Clarence Ney was one of the first victims when the storm roared into Pennsylvania Thursday when she was swept out of his arms as he led his family of seven through flood waters at Union Deposit in Dauphin County.

Ronks in Lancaster County and his son, Benjamin, 10 months, were killed when their Amish horse-drawn buggy was carried into Pequea Creek near Paradise.

Philadelphia Policeman Lee Van Winkle, 45, was missing and presumed drowned Friday after he was carried down the rain-swollen Schuylkill River when a boat containing three patrolmen capsized Thursday night during an attempt to rescue an elderly woman from a flood-threatened house in the Manayunk section.

Gordon Hufnagle, public safety director of Lewisburg in Union County, lost his life when a rowboat overturned as he was trying to rescue two people in Bull Run.

A woman identified as Mrs. Joseph Murphy, also of Lewisburg, drowned in the same boat mishap.

The other known dead included: Constance Marie Yurich, 22, East Greensville, and Robert G. Reck, 24, Pennsburg RD 1, whose bodies were recovered Friday after their auto was carried almost 200 feet down Deep Creek near Pottstown in Montgomery County.

Mrs. Lottie Hornberger, 40, of Ephrata, and her daughter, Wanda Jean, 11, who were drowned in Lancaster County.

Henry M. Sidehoff, New Holland in Lancaster County, who was electrocuted in his flooded basement. Earl Brightbill, 58, Union Deposit, Dauphin County, Mrs. William E. Minicum, Lewisburg, and John Daniels Sr., 76, of Paradise, who drowned in flooded basements.

Flood threat passes

STROUDSBURG — For Monroe County residents, the flood warning in effect for the area for the last two days is water over the dam — figuratively speaking, at least.

The Civil Defense headquarters in the Monroe County courthouse opened for business at noon Wednesday and an around-the-clock flood watch was maintained until shortly after 3 p.m. Friday as Tropical Storm Agnes' center progressed up the east coast.

Acting CD director Marshall Reese said Friday the Pocono and McMichael Creeks have begun to recede slowly, although the Broadhead continued to rise at a slow pace. He noted there was no cause for alarm for residents along the Broadhead flood plain as the water is being held within the banks fairly well.

In some areas of the county minor flooding occurred when water rolled out of stream and creek beds in low lying sections. Little property damage was reported.

Road conditions in the county were reported as being good with only a few secondary roads suffering damage from water flow.

A section of Beacon Hill Road in Stroud Township had some damage and Chapel Hill Road in Paradise Township was reported closed until repairs to its surface could be made. Pennsylvania Department of Transportation highway crews are continuing to check roads for damage.

Robert Fish, rivermaster for the U.S. Geological Survey on the Delaware River in Milford, said the Delaware is running in a "moderate stage." He said the latest recorded depth was marked at 14.58 feet, approximately nine feet above the normal summer depth, and surpassed the spring runoff stage by a few inches.

"The river is very much with it yet," said Fish. "This is the highest stage we've had all year. If the current weather forecast holds we should get about one inch more in the next 18 hours. If we get that much over that length of time there should be no problems, but if it's heavier and falls in a short period of time it may give the smaller streams some trouble."

"We've been very fortunate," said Fish. "The Schuylkill and Susquehanna basins are in very bad shape. I guess we've just been living right."

Both areas named were indeed "in very bad shape" Friday. The Wilkes-Barre and Kingston areas were being evacuated as the Susquehanna River continued to rise. All bridges from Kingston to Wilkes-Barre were closed and water was reported rising above the courthouse stairs in Wilkes-Barre.

Unconfirmed reports from state police helicopters flying over the area indicate homes washed from their foundations were floating down the river.

The Pennsylvania Power and Light Company reported that nearly 55,000 customers in flood-affected areas were without power Friday morning and that number was expected to increase in areas where rivers and streams have not yet crested. There were no reported outages in Monroe County.

The roller gates at Lake Wallenpaupack were opened nine inches at 2:31 p.m. Friday and the dam was spilling out water at a rate of 2,900 cubic feet per minute, about 1,000 feet per minute above normal, to maintain the proper level of the lake.

The National Weather Service in Avoca is calling for gradual clearing over the next three days as the storm diminishes in strength and moves off the east coast. Temperatures are predicted to remain somewhat cooler than normal for this time of year, averaging in the low to mid 60's.

The forecast for Sunday is cloudy with rain showers which will last into Monday. There should be some clearing Tuesday and Wednesday and a gradual increase in temperatures. The rain forecast over the weekend is not predicted to have any effect on flooded areas or streams and creeks in Monroe County.

Reds strike back at Hue

SAIGON — North Vietnamese forces, apparently undeterred by 36 hours of heavy U.S. air and naval bombardment, struck back Friday night with attacks against South Vietnam's northernmost defense line and the old imperial capital of Hue. Military spokesmen said the Communists directed two heavy artillery barrages against South Vietnamese forces entrenched along the southern bank of the My Chanh river and also launched a ground attack against the northern defense perimeter of Hue, which is 20 miles south of the river.

Hijacker demands ransom

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A bushy-haired man hijacked an American Airlines 727 jetliner Friday, ordered the plane to fly to Fort Worth, Tex., and then back to St. Louis where it landed about 10:28 p.m. EDT. A radio operator at Lambert Field said the hijacker indicated he would release 12 of 13 remaining passengers and three of seven crewmembers after he picked up an undetermined ransom. The FBI said the man had demanded $502,000.

Israel pounds guerrillas

TEL AVIV — Israeli jets and artillery pounded Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon for the second time in three days Friday in attacks guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat said were part of a "cumulative Zionist plan" to trigger an Arab civil war. Arafat urged concerted Arab action against the Israelis and American interests in the Middle East to counter the raids.

UN to consider Mideast strife

UNITED NATIONS — Lebanon and Israel both requested Friday that the Security Council meet urgently to discuss border strife that has flared intermittently since the massacre at Lod (Lydda) airport May 30. The council was called for 8 p.m. EDT Friday. U.N. sources said there was a strong possibility the 15-nation council would meet Friday night.

British, Irish battle

BELFAST — Gunmen battled British troops in Belfast and Londonderry Friday in advance of a cease-fire pledged by the Irish Republican Army for midnight Monday.

Price board may freeze meat cost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the Price Commission considering a 30-day freeze on retail meat prices, the Agriculture Department reported Friday the cost of a typical family food basket in supermarkets rose 0.4 per cent in May despite lower middleman profits.

Last month's increase, following declines of 0.7 per cent in April and 0.4 per cent in March, was attributed mainly to higher retail prices for pork and fresh vegetables and fruit.

The department said beef prices were trending up as May ended, but that they fell over the entire 31-day period because chain stores sharply cut their mark-ups.

The Price Commission decided to meet at noon Sunday to discuss the need for a 30-day freeze on retail meat prices after its recommendation for such action was bypassed by the panel's parent Cost of Living Council at a lengthy meeting Thursday.

The commission meeting was called by Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. after he had talked with each of his six colleagues. "Since the council didn't do anything, this freeze is very much on their minds," said one source, adding later, however, that "there are no plans to impose a 30-day freeze as of now."

The Agriculture Department said the May increase in retail costs could have been a good deal higher, pointing out that farmer returns for beef rose 4 per cent and wholesale prices jumped 4.9 per cent. But by slashing profit margins 12.7 per cent, retailers pulled the average consumer price of choice beef down ever so slightly and left it at the lowest level for any month since December, the department report said.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Thursday that grocery prices had declined 0.2 per cent in May. But officials noted that the BLS report was based on prices during the first week of the month and that the Agriculture Department report included prices recorded throughout the month.

As for the prospect of a freeze imposed by the Price Commission, some sources saw it as less urgent in the wake of President Nixon's disclosure at a news conference Thursday that he might lift quotas on foreign meat imports.

Nixon also said he would not rule out elimination of the price control exemption that raw agricultural products, such as fresh fruits and vegetables, have enjoyed since the wage-price freeze was imposed in mid-August.

Both steps were what Grayson had in mind Wednesday when he urged the Cost of Living Council, the policy-making arm of the administration's economic control machinery, to take "timely action" to curb soaring food prices. Indications were Friday that the idea of a temporary freeze on meat prices, a route Grayson's commission has always been reluctant to take, had lost some of its steam.

In a hitherto secret letter to council director Donald Rumsfeld, Grayson said that "we feel the urgency of this issue requires early action by the Cost of Living Council."

Nixon raps bus provision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed a $19 billion higher education aid bill Friday but charged that the Democratic-controlled Congress had provided rhetoric instead of a solution to the politically explosive court-ordered busing issue.

The legislation, containing the strongest curb yet on busing to achieve desegregation, will delay until the beginning of 1974 implementation of any judicial busing edicts still subject to appeal. The President had asked Congress for a moratorium on enforcement of all orders until July 1, 1973, and enactment of standards for school desegregation to make busing a last resort measure.

"Congress has not given us what we requested; it has given us rhetoric," Nixon said in a statement on busing released by the White House in announcing he had signed the three-year aid authorization bill.

"It has not provided a solution to the problem of court-ordered busing. It has provided a clever political evasion. The moratorium it offers is temporary. The relief it provides is illusory."

Later, the President indicated he intended to make busing a major campaign issue and said he would seek a constitutional amendment unless Congress approved his proposal before adjourning.

Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the House-Senate conference committee that fashioned a compromise out of differing versions of the bill after about 10 weeks of work, returned Nixon's criticism.

"He just wants to keep the (busing) issue alive," said Perkins. "He played politics with it as far as he could and he's still trying to keep it up."

But the congressman, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, also said the panel would resume hearings on Nixon's proposal next Wednesday.

The education bill authorizes money to continue present aid programs and for the first time permits direct federal assistance to private as well as public institutions. Funds to carry out the law must be approved in a separate appropriations bill and a renewal of the busing debate was expected then.

Amtrak fund bill signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed legislation Friday granting Amtrak an additional $227 million to run the country's passenger train service through July 1, 1973.

The bill also gives Amtrak authority to borrow an additional $100 million with federal backing.

However, the new law puts a limit of $60,000 on the salary of any Amtrak official, meaning that Amtrak president Roger Lewis' present salary of $125,000 will be cut substantially.

There also are several service requirements in the bill including allocation of $2 million of the grant money to begin service to Canada and Mexico at Montreal, Vancouver and Nuevo Laredo. Amtrak also is brought under the Freedom of Information Act and required to make monthly reports.

Amtrak, a semipublic corporation, was formed May 1, 1971, to attempt to save the country's declining passenger train service.

McGovern forces control platform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern's forces took control of platform writing for the Democratic National Convention Friday as his aides predicted he would capture enough uncommitted and wavering delegates within a week to clinch the presidential nomination.

With little more than two weeks remaining before the Democrats meet in Miami Beach, McGovern landed six supporters — more than any other candidate — on the 15-member subcommittee that will actually draft the platform statement of party principles for a convention vote.

Although the South Dakota senator's aides said he would be "pleading with" rather than "instructing" his representatives on platform and credentials disputes, they made clear that a draft platform with a commitment to anything less than "total withdrawal from Vietnam and stopping the bombing would not be acceptable."

The working subcommittee chairman is Kenneth Gibson, the black mayor of Newark, N.J., and a McGovern supporter. With other members chosen according to their delegates' total present delegate strength, two each were pledged to Hubert H. Humphrey and George C. Wallace, one to Edmund S. Muskie and four were uncommitted.

Raging Susquehanna seals off Sunbury; toll set at 12

By Ottaway News Service
SUNBURY, Pa. — This low-lying city of 14,000 was completely sealed off by floodwaters Friday as the rampaging Susquehanna River and its tributaries obliterated roads and threatened to uproot bridges.

The city was ordered evacuated by its mayor, but most residents found no exit and fled instead to the northeast hill section of the city where they crammed into schools and private homes.

Others unable to make it to high ground were being rescued by National Guard helicopters that conducted operations throughout the day.

The death toll in the immediate Sunbury area had risen to 12 by mid-day with many more reported missing.

Thousands were evacuated from the river basin area as waters continued to rise, threatening to shatter earthen dikes and over-ride concrete retaining walls.

"The worst is yet to come," reported Robert E. Lauf, news editor of the Sunbury Daily Item, an Ottaway paper, which was forced to suspend publication Friday when the city was evacuated. The federal River Forecasting Service predicted that the swollen Susquehanna would crest sometime Saturday afternoon at Sunbury, sending an estimated four to five feet of water over a concrete retaining wall constructed after a disastrous flood there in 1936.

Flood waters were also expected to leap or crumble earthen levees protecting the northern and southern sections of the city.

At 4:30 p.m. Thursday, the city's drinking water supply gave out, leaving isolated inhabitants to rely on reserves they had collected in pots, jars and a variety of other containers. All stores, shops, and factories were closed and food shortages were reported in some sections of the city.

There was no ground access to the city. All roads from the east and south were flooded and impassable. All bridges crossing the Susquehanna to the north and west were closed as the river threatened to wash them away.

Property damage mounted steadily during the day and reached the multi-million dollar level. A $1.5 million marina, dedicated just last Sunday at Sunbury during the steady downpour that led to the flooding, was completely washed away. Mobile homes and trailers were seen floating down the swollen river.

Helicopters were being used to shuttle medical personnel and employees at several state institutions to their jobs.

Throughout the day residents of the flooded area jammed the few supermarkets that remained open to stock up on food. One large supermarket located just across the Susquehanna from Sunbury was ringed with people lined up in the rain for a chance to get inside to buy provisions.

The city's drinking water shortage was termed "critical" by early evening.

Calif. town 'drowns'

ISLETON, Calif. (UPI) — Three thousand persons were left homeless Friday by floods which caused millions of dollars in losses in the delta area where mountain rivers flow into San Francisco Bay.

Most of the town of Isleton, with a population of 1,300, was under water as deep as 10 feet, inundated when a hastily-built emergency dike collapsed Thursday night.

Hundreds of workers scurried from the dike area when the eight-foot high earth and sandbag barrier sagged and quickly collapsed.

"We just dropped everything and shagged out," said Tommy Ciaramitaro, a 17-year-old volunteer worker.

"It's all over. We lost," said Col. James C. Donovan of the Army Corps of Engineers, who led a 36-hour attempt to save the town with the 1 1/2-mile long makeshift dike.

Officials said it could be months before the floodwater could be pumped out of the low-lying district.

Governor's mansion is partially submerged as Susquehanna River crested and drenched much of Harrisburg

Governor's mansion evacuated

Flood 'aids' Harrisburg blaze

HARRISBURG (UPI) — A full block of flooded homes, adjacent to the governor's mansion, were consumed by flames Friday while firemen watched helplessly from small rowboats.

Heavy gas fumes filled the neighborhood. Brilliant orange flames curled through the air and dark grey smoke billowed from the rain-soaked roofs.

I went to the fire in a small motor boat as hundreds of firemen and National Guardsmen tried to float hoses from a truck on the nearest dry patch of land, three blocks away.

The water buried the first floor of most of the homes on Green St., which had been dry only a few hours earlier. Most of the residents were evacuated in boats.

Garbage cans, logs, street signs, police barricades and a wooden staircase floated in the swift, brown water. The tops of a few cars were visible beneath the boat.

Burning debris fell from the homes and floated past the state's $2.4 million executive mansion. One house already was destroyed and the flames had eaten out the insides of all the surrounding buildings. The heat was unbearable.

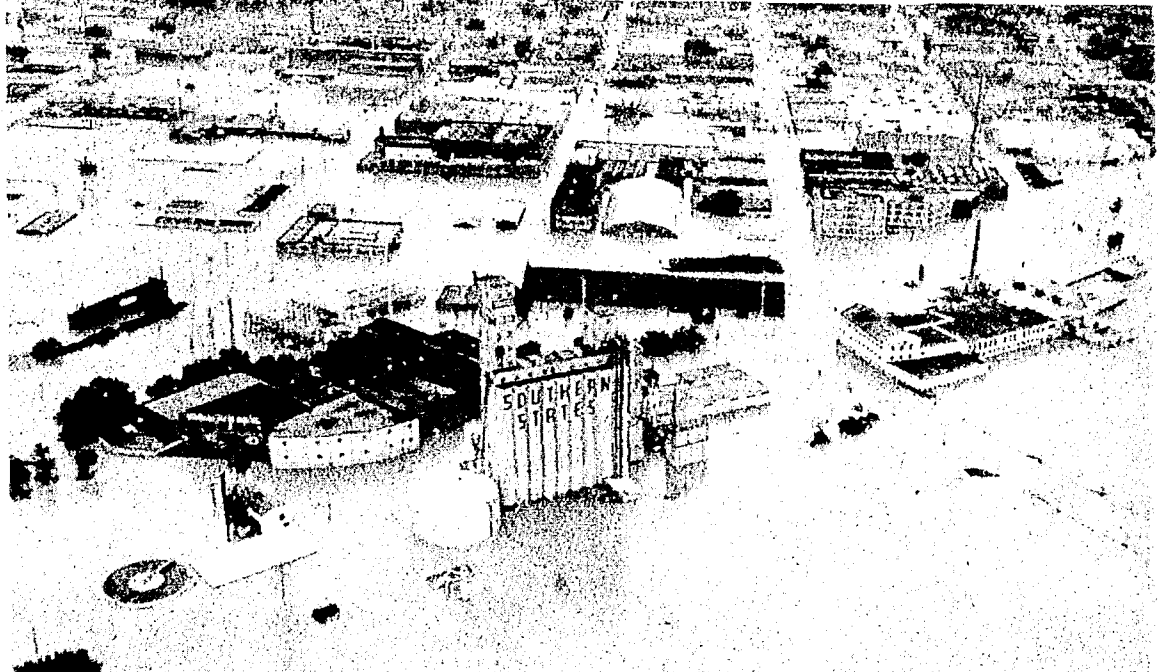

"I have to go fast past here," yelled the driver of the boat, a state waterways employee. "If that wall collapses, it will capsize the boat."

A fireman yelled to us from another boat. "You have to go back," he said. "They need your boat to evacuate some people from their homes."

We turned and headed back past the mansion, a huge colonial building built in 1968 on the banks of the Susquehanna River. It is surrounded by a tall iron fence, but only the top of the fence perturbed from the water.

A boat, carrying three men in bright orange raincoats, was moored at the door of the mansion.

West Virginia braces for flood

By United Press International
National Guard troops were called to duty Friday as West Virginia's Northern Panhandle braced for a flood from the Ohio River and Eastern Panhandle counties hoped the worst was over from the deluge unleashed by tropical storm Agnes.

Gov. Arch Moore authorized use of the guard troops and two engineering platoons of almost 100 men with eight dump trucks were called to active duty by Adj. Gen. Jack Blair. The troops will aid authorities in the Wheeling and Moundsville areas evacuate families threatened by flood waters.

Blair said two full battalions of troops were available for duty in the Northern Panhandle if needed. Meanwhile, other guard units in West Virginia were placed on "green alert," or standby by Moore.

The precautions were taken because the Ohio River is forecast by the National Weather Service river office at Pittsburgh to crest at Wheeling at 45 feet, nine feet above flood stage, by 10 p.m. Saturday.

In the Eastern Panhandle, an unknown number of families, estimates range as high as 125 had to evacuate their homes overnight Thursday and Friday as the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers overflowed their banks. Miraculously, there were no deaths or injuries reported.

The Shenandoah crested where it joins the Potomac at Harpers Ferry at 30 feet above flood stage. The Potomac was expected to crest at 28 feet there at 6 p.m. Friday, 10 feet above flood stage. Residents said it was the worst flood in memory.

The Harpers Ferry National Historical Park was evacuated and roads in Jefferson, Berkeley and Morgan counties were swamped.

Hardest hit were the communities Millville and Bloomer where most of the evacuation took place.

The water pumping station at Shepherdstown was overwhelmed by the Potomac and residents were told to conserve water and boil it.

In the past three days, the Eastern Panhandle received just over seven inches of rain.

Another problem caused by the flood was the apparent ruination of the cherry crop in the panhandle.

Albert honored by firefighters

BANGOR — When a group of 50 men gather together to honor Mr. Cool Cucumber of 1972, you know the event is something out of the ordinary — especially since it's only held once every 29 years or so.

There are no muscle boys in bikinis, and no talent contests involved. The only criteria for the title requires that a man be cool, calm, and rational in every possible emergency.

It was for such characteristics that mild-mannered, "Stone Face," Ben Albert of Bangor received the unofficial title of Mr. Cool Cucumber of 1972.

In fact, Albert could be named Mr. Cool Cucumber of 1972, 1971, 1970 and so forth all the way back to 1943 when he first became chief of the Bangor Fire Department.

At a special champagne dinner Thursday night at the Bangor House, 50 members of the Rescue Volunteer Fire Company, one of three in the Bangor system, gathered to pay tribute to Albert as a "great leader, a great man and a great friend."

Albert stepped down as chief of the Bangor department this month.

Able to retain the confidence and the respect of his men because of his even temperament and friendly disposition, Albert was commended for his coolheadedness throughout his 42 year career, even during the toughest fires.

"Ben Albert, you're the coolest cucumber I ever ran across," said Toastmaster Charles Buzzard. "When things got hot, all I had to do was look at your expression and I was calm. For any fireman the biggest problem in fighting fires is his own emotion. We all get excited too fast."

Sponsored by the Rescue company, the dinner paid tribute to Albert's 42 years as a firemen and 29 years as chief of the Bangor department.

pany in Pen Argyl, related an incident that occurred at a recent barn fire in Bangor.

"Everybody rushed in there and was a nervous wreck," he said. "Ben took a few minutes to survey the scene and commented: 'Let's watch this caper for a minute.' His cool got the fire out in no time. Ben never gets excited."

In a pre-dinner interview, Albert, himself, described his main asset over the years as his calm nature.

"I never worried about the great responsibility I had," he said. "I never got excited over that or any fire. The most important job of the chief is to the men and the equipment fire when he is approaching it. He has to know how to handle the men and the equipment and he has to stay calm to do that."

During the main address, Chief Savercool cited the excellent cooperation from Albert with the Pen Argyl Fire Company over the years. He commended the retired electric foreman for his knowledge and experience in fire fighting.

As a token of his appreciation, Savercool presented Albert with a ticket to attend the Mets baseball game in New York this Sunday.

On behalf of the company, rescue Vice-President Wayne Williams presented Albert with an engraved electric Benrus watch containing a firemen's dial.

Len's Art of Bangor also agreed to donate a picture of Albert to hang in the Rescue Company as a tribute to the long-time chief.

Cool as usual, but obviously touched by the dinner, Albert responded to the gifts with a few brief remarks.

"The main thing I had going for me all these years was the confidence of my men," he said. "If you've got that, you can do anything. You're all damn good men. Stick together and you can keep this company solid for the years to come."

In his parting remarks, Albert commended Bangor's new fire chief and said the department would be a good one for years to come.

In summing up his years of dedicated service to Bangor, Albert said one of his biggest jobs as chief was handling the men.

"When you deal with volunteers," he said, "some you can lead, some you can drive, and some you have to push. But this department is one of the best you can find. The volunteers here have a true desire to help."

In commenting on the chief's leadership ability, Buzzard said he considered himself lucky to serve under Albert.

"I have yet to be balled out by him," said the toastmaster. "He's a man of few words but he commands respect. He let the officers run the show which gave them a feeling of responsibility. But he let you know if you did something wrong, too."

One of Albert's greatest achievements during his 29 years as chief was revamping the fire alarm system in Bangor and laying out and supervising a similar system for Roseto.

Credited with saving Bangor's town hall during a recent fire at the old Bee Hive, the former chairman of the four county firemen's association was host for the group's convention in 1950.

In 1930 he was voted to active membership in the Rescue Fire Company and in 1943 was appointed chief. He served in that capacity until this month.

Under Albert's leadership five new pieces of fire fighting apparatus were purchased and placed in operation at the Bangor department.

The newest piece of apparatus a 1972 LaFrance Pioneer truck, was placed into service this year by Liberty Fire Company.

Hospital council renamed

ALLENTOWN — "Hospital and Health Council" is the new name of the Greater Lehigh Valley Hospital and Health Planning Council. The board of directors approved the change as a more accurate and shorter name for the council which also serves a number of hospitals outside of the Lehigh Valley.

The board also approved the replacement of 43 beds at the Brookmont Acres Home for Senior Citizens in Effort.

Proposed expansion programs at Pleasant Valley Manor, Snyder'sville, and the Kresge Nursing Home in Kresgeville will be reviewed at the board's next meeting.

Lionel G. Price, executive director, announced length of patient stay in hospitals in the six-county area dropped almost a full day last year.

This drop, from 9.9 to nine days, will free about 400 beds for other patients this year, as the result of tighter utilization control by the hospitals, Medicare, Medicaid and Blue Cross. Length of stay in the area, however, is still one of the highest in the nation.

FCC slows down CATV

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last in a three-part series on cable television in the West End.

By MAUREEN RUFÉ
Pocono Record Reporter

PALMERTON — With the possibility of cable television service being offered to virtually every township in the West End of Monroe County, requests for service are beginning to pile up at Blue Ridge Cable Television.

The company is ready to begin construction on new cable immediately; it's the Federal Communications Commission that's holding everything up.

Initially, the Palmerton Company had the FCC's blessing to go ahead with its expansion program. After the commission issued its new "CATV Report and Order" on February 3, 1972, however, the CATV (cable antenna & Television) regulations were tightened up and every cable company was required to apply for and receive a certificate of compliance from the commission in order to continue its operation.

The new standards, which required cable television companies to file sample contracts and articles of agreement with all municipalities containing subscribers, imposed no real hardship on Blue Ridge Cable Television; they had already been fulfilling such requirements on their own.

The Palmerton company has met all the conditions of the new order; all that remains is for the company's Washington-based attorney to file officially with the FCC for the certificate.

He is reluctant to do so, according to Blue Ridge Cable President Claude Reinhard, until some of the controversy about the certificates has been resolved. Many broadcasters, reportedly, are deliberately trying to logjam the issue of the certificates by filing what amounts to blanket opposition to any and all cable stations in the country.

According to Atty. Anthony Cavender, who represents the cable television division of the FCC in Washington, to date more than 600 companies have filed for certificates and every one has been opposed.

Cavender explained that under the FCC order, opposition or support for a CATV company which has filed for a certificate, can be filed with the commission within 30 days after the company's application has been placed on public record.

The company then has an opportunity to respond to the opposition. Following is another 30-day period in which the opposition again has an opportunity to make its case.

According to the June 9 edition of "Cable News," opposition to the certificate applications have been pouring into the commission almost daily.

The magazine said that the "blanket" oppositions have been filed by professional sports groups including the National Hockey League and the commissioner of baseball.

Cavender explained that sports groups are afraid their gate receipts will suffer if cable television has the right to pick up any sports event and show it at random to any audience.

The attorney explained that under a blackout law passed by the Congress some time ago, local teams can insist on their rights to have broadcasters black out the game to viewers in their home area.

The rule however, doesn't include cable television companies, who could pick up a signal and broadcast it anywhere regardless of the blackout.

The FCC has taken the position that since Congress requires the broadcasters to black out some home games, perhaps the commission should regulate CATV in a similar manner to protect gate receipts.

The commission has put out a sample ruling for comment that would prohibit any CATV system in a designated home territory from importing any game of the same sport from a station further than 35 miles when the local team is playing at home. The only exception to the rule would be if the game is already available on local stations.

For example, if the Philadelphia Eagles would be playing at home, CATV would not be allowed to broadcast any other football game to subscribers living within a radius of 35 miles to the nearest local Philadelphia television station.

According to a legislation letter of the National Cable Television Association, this regulation would force existing CATV system to black out a subscriber's favorite team. It also said that some stations who are already forced with heavy exclusivity for movies and series have counted on sports as the redeeming factor to develop operations.

Richard Semmel, general manager of Blue Ridge Cable Television, said the entire proposal was ridiculous and would really require complicated switching procedures to black out everything that would be required under the law.

Semmel said that transmitting other sports contests would only help gate receipts and he cited a local example in broadcasting local high school wrestling matches.

Initially school officials were reluctant to go ahead with broadcasts because they were afraid their minimal gate receipts would drop even lower. After the matches were shown locally, however, a new awareness of the sport occurred, and attendance was increased 100 per cent even though the events were still being telecast.

Cavender emphasized that the sports ruling was only a proposal at this time, but he inferred that sports groups were opposing the issuance of the certificates of compliance until their issue was settled.

Right now, the attorney described the FCC as up in the air on the question and said the commission is trying to put something together to resolve the problem.

Club to hold 'fly-in' fete

MOUNT POCONO — The Pocono Mountains Rotary Club will sponsor its annual fly-in breakfast on Sunday at the Mount Pocono Airport.

The breakfast will be held from 9:30 a.m. on, with "ground prizes" being given to every 10th plane which lands at the facility.

The event is scheduled in conjunction with events being held for the Schaefer 500 at Pocono Race.

Rains still raise specter of floods

Whenever it rains for more than three or four days at a time, Monroe County residents hearken back to the disastrous flood of 1955, or the less disastrous but still serious flood of 1969.

Their concern is understandable. In both floods, much property was damaged, and in 1955, many lives were lost. The thought hovers around the corners of the mind that it may be happening again, and there is worry.

And when the rains stop and Old Sol smiles his benign smile again, such thoughts vanish and everyone turns to pursuits and concerns more related to the happier side of life.

Perhaps that shouldn't happen. Perhaps people should retain at least a shred of their concern and think about adequate flood control.

This means not only a dam on the Delaware (it takes a lot of rain to raise that river to flood conditions) but dams on the lesser tributaries that usually cause the greatest damage, simply because they usually are viewed as docile and not taken as a serious threat as a consequence.

What many people forget is that the Tocks Island Dam is but one in a series of dams and other flood control projects planned as a wholesale approach to the flood problem by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Many opponents of the Tocks Island Dam inveigle against that specific project, claiming it won't give this area the flood control it needs.

Sure. It won't — by itself. But the other dams projected as a part of the entire flood control plan for the area, in conjunction with Tocks, will. The point is that, as in a jigsaw puzzle, all the pieces must be present for the picture to be complete. One group of pieces without the key won't work.

If the minor tributaries are capable of producing such damage as to frighten nearby residents, then so is the Delaware, into which they feed. If flood control is to become a viable force for safety in this area, all the elements figured into the overall plan must be realized.

That means not only dams along the streams that flow through this area, but the master key — the dam across the Delaware. That's the Tocks Dam.

We suggest those who claim there is little virtue in Tocks think about the entire network of flood control "pieces" the next time we have as much rain as we have had in the last few days. It might help to change their outlook.

Coin corner

California gold glitters

By ROBERT SVENSSON
They call California the "Golden State."

The state flower is the golden poppy. Almost everything is somehow linked with gold, which proves that people have long memories, for it was the discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill on January 2, 1848, that gave California its golden image.

The United States Mint at San Francisco did not go into operation until 1854, and the need for coinage following the California gold rush was of greatest urgency. To fill the need, several private mints went into operation as early as 1849. Today, the gold pieces produced by these mints are among the most sought after in the entire world of numismatics.

It is believed that the first gold coin produced in California was the work of a firm called Norris, Grief & Norris. The coin was a Half Eagle ($5) and was produced in the town of Benicia. It bore the imprint, San Francisco, on the reverse, however.

The face of the Norris coins show the U.S. Eagle much as it appeared on officially minted U.S. coins of the time. The face bore the words "California Gold Without Alloy."

This little coin, if you can find one, is worth anywhere from $300 to $1,000, depending on condition.

Equally important are the gold ingots (not coins) produced by a private minter, Moffat & Co. The rectangular pieces produced in the summer of 1849 by this firm to fill the need for a medium of exchange of guaranteed value were designated in carat weights, worth $9.43, $14.25, and $16. These ingots are so rare that it is virtually impossible to find one today. A $9.43 ingot is in the National Coin Collection in Washington, D.C. A collector must beware of spurious copies.

Moffat also produced gold coins in $5 and $10 denominations. These greatly resemble official United States gold coins on both face and reverse. They bear the words California Gold, in place of the word Liberty.

Moffat was joined by Augustus Humbert, a New York watchmaker, in 1851. He became the official U.S. assayer. Together Moffat and Humbert produced a number of quasi-official gold coins.

A number of other firms entered the picture and produced coins until the United States Mint made it all official in 1855.

Kissinger role

WASHINGTON — You may have heard Dr. Henry Kissinger described as the greatest diplomatic impresario since Prince Metternich hung up his spikes.

He is the No. 1 topic of conversation at Washington parties and along the press club corridors.

He is the No. 2 topic of conversation in Japan, China, Russia, Bangladesh and Rwanda.

Sometimes someone will burst out with the question: "Who is the second most influential official in Washington?" — and his quick answer is: "Richard Nixon."

One speaker before a large public audience here recently pretended to make a mistake by referring to "President Kissinger."

These remarks are not made wholly in jest. They are partly serious. They rest on a central truth and that truth concerns the powerful and ubiquitous role which Kissinger plays at the President's elbow in crucial foreign policy initiatives.

He has been at the creative center of every major policy move the President has made — new relationships with China and Russia, a considerable dissolving of the cold war, the first stride toward ending the nuclear arms race, new joint enterprises with the Soviet Union.

Much talk

No wonder there is so much talk about Kissinger.

But is it justified? Is he doing it all himself? Is President Nixon the instrument of Henry Kissinger, or is Henry Kissinger the instrument of President Nixon?

These are pertinent questions and all would not take the same answer. The answers I would give are these:

Each is indispensable to the other.

Each has different capacities and experience and the two have meshed to produce a remarkable team.

Nixon knew he needed a Kissinger, he found him and gave his special talents full play.

Some might be ill at ease in working with a subordinate as intellectually brilliant as Kissinger. The President and Kissinger were at ease with each other from the start. No President has ever given a single assistant such range of function, such visibility, such latitude as Nixon has given to Kissinger. It is hard to overstate how much Kissinger has been free to do and directed to do. With the President's approval, he has roamed wherever the need for his abilities took him.

He has been a principal architect of foreign policy. He has provided the conceptual basis for nearly all of the President's main undertakings.

Before Kissinger came on the scene, Nixon knew where he wanted to go; namely to move away from confrontation and to create with all nations a stake in productive negotiation. Kissinger designed the road map. Nixon decided what he wanted to do and Kissinger found the best ways to do it.

No ivory tower

Kissinger is no ivory-tower intellectual. He can do — as well as think. When Hanoi wanted to try out secret negotiations, the President sent Kissinger. When the North Vietnamese want to try again, they will probably ask for Kissinger.

I doubt that either could have succeeded without the other. Nixon made the tough decisions and politically, diplomatically and militarily they took a large supply of faith and fortitude.

It is harder to wage peace than war and that is what Nixon and Kissinger are waging.

Little drop of blood

Doctors never take for granted the host of intertwining body mechanisms that result in good health.

Think of the wonders of a single drop of blood.

Millions of red blood cells are contained in a drop of blood. Each drop carries the hemoglobin, with its life-sustaining oxygen.

Thousands of white blood cells in that drop stand ready and prepared for the call to hurry to any area of the body to fight infection. There they attack and surround and encapsulate the trouble-making bacteria. Then the white blood cells give up their lives and form the "pus" which signifies that their battle has been won. The formation of "pus," therefore, contrary to general knowledge, is an excellent indication of good body resistance to infection.

Plasma, the fluid substance in this drop of blood, contains many of the antibodies that give protection and immunity against disease.

In that single drop of blood, the most remarkable clotting mechanisms are housed.

Dozens of interacting substances determine the free flow of blood and its coagulation. Vitamins, proteins, hormones, amino acids, calcium, potassium, phosphorus, iron, and many other substances all live in this tiny community of one drop of blood.

You may ask what else could possibly be contained in one drop of blood. Blood types, the agglutination processes, and special hereditary factors all revolve in this balanced orbit of wonderment.

RNA and DNA (nucleic acid) are.

messengers carried in the drop of blood that bring, in a fraction of a second, to the brain and to the hormone glands, immediate messages for refueling when there is any deficiency that must be replenished.

The oxygen and carbon dioxide balance in the blood sends its own messages to the heart, to the lungs, and to the brain with telegraphic speed when there is need for more oxygen.

Urgent messages are decoded in a hundredth of a second, and the feedback message is taken by that drop of blood to say that help is on its way.

These ingredients are but a fraction of the other chemicals contained in that drop of blood. All of them indicate the health and disease of the body and quickly report to the doctor the ideal form of treatment.

The speed with which a single drop of blood circulates through the body reveals the health of the circulatory system. That speed can actually be measured, and becomes an important part of the diagnosis.

All of man's remarkable accomplishments on earth, on the moon, and in interplanetary space are humbled in the presence of a single drop of blood.

Tocks Dam dangerous

Editor, The Record:

Having been caught in our Bushkill home on Big Bushkill Creek during the 1955 flood, the Ray Kress letter in The Pocono Record of June 15 does not make sense.

The reason for the disaster in Rapid City was that an earthen dam gave way. If we had had a dam in the Delaware in 1955, I would not be around now to write this letter.

As it was, the creek rose over 20 feet so that the water came up to window sills of our home. Fortunately, the house is made of stone and the walls are a foot thick. The walls were able to withstand the force of the water.

Inside the house, water seeped in from the cellar under the house and was 10 inches high. Up the creek from us, a house was completely washed away. It was made of wood; had our home been similarly built, the same thing would have happened to it. Fortunately, for the owner of the house that was washed away, the people were away at the time.

Tocks, as I understand it, is to be an earthen dam the same as the Rapid City dam. I can see nothing but eventual disaster should it be constructed. It is my suggestion that the gentleman from Sciota learn a little more about dams and the horrors for which they have been responsible all over the world. Important is a statement by Frank Dressler, mentioned in the Record in August 1963, that a dam in the Delaware would not prevent flooding.

MRS. MIRIAM R. SCHNITZER
Bayonne, N.J.

About Schnitzer's letter . . .

Editor, The Record:

As always, I enjoyed Mr. Schnitzer's letter in the June 20 paper. He gets so wonderfully steamed up and is one of the best conclusion-jumpers among your correspondents.

As a matter of fact, the Canyon Lake Dam above Rapid City, South Dakota, that burst with such tragic results, was built in the '30's by the W.P.A., and not by the Army Engineers. I am sorry to disappoint Mr. Schnitzer.

However, he still cherishes a nuclear bomb threat and I am afraid it would be hard to convince him that there are a great many more important places in the U.S.A. to drop one of them — there bombs than on the Tocks Island Dam. Moreover, if by chance one were dropped on this target (which heaven forbid!) I don't think that the flood that would ensue would be the worst that would happen!

I also have heard Admiral McNally (retired) of the DVCA hold forth on this, and I'm afraid that once the Dam was built there, that an enemy bomber would not head straight for it — skipping Washington, New York, Philadelphia, the huge arsenal in New Jersey (I am not mentioning that by name because of the information it might give to our enemies), and of course Chicago wouldn't count too much.

But you at The Record, stick to your guns. Water storage, flood control, additional electric power, and a great big beautiful lake for recreation are important.

Church bells disturb sleep

Editor, The Record:

In answer to Bell Lover of Stroudsburg who did not have the decency to sign his name to the letter, I am not ashamed to reveal mine.

I am a member of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church as are my husband, my sons and the rest of the family. We are faithful members of our church. I happen to love my church very much.

You have the audacity to tell Mr. Frontino to move away. Well, I have lived here with my family for 26 years and I'm not about to move away for you or anyone else.

I live on Henry Street right around the corner from my church. My husband works nights and has for the past 26 years. He can't get to sleep in the morning because the chimes start around 9:15 a.m. He is awakened at 12:15 and then when he tries to sleep after dinner, the chimes start again at 6:15.

Those people who have the pleasure of peaceful nights to sleep should have consideration for the people who have to make a living working the night shift.

Myself, I enjoy the bells but I also feel for my husband and the rest of the community who work the night shift.

How would you feel if you lived on top of the chimes? By the time you hear them in Stroudsburg they are toned down 100 per cent.

No, whoever you are, if you have a reply, please have the courage of your convictions and sign your name.

Private war ruined talks

WASHINGTON — A review of the secret record has persuaded Henry Kissinger's aides that Gen. John Lavelle's private air war against North Vietnam may well have upset the peace prospects last fall.

President Nixon had limited the air strikes against North Vietnam to "protective reaction." Our planes weren't supposed to bomb above the demilitarized zone, in other words, unless they were provoked by enemy action.

The general instructed his pilots not to report after these raids that there had been "no enemy action." Washington, therefore, didn't know from reading the reports that the raids had been unprovoked.

Lavelle, for his part, was understandably upset over reconnaissance photos, which showed a Communist military buildup across the demilitarized zone. He took the authority upon himself to send planes against the most tempting targets.

If he had it to do all over again, he has now told Congressmen, he would take the same action but would not falsify the reports. He assumed that he knew better than the President how to run the war. What Lavelle didn't know, however, was that the President was trying to end the war through delicate secret negotiations.

While Lavelle's unauthorized bombing was going on, Henry Kissinger was talking secretly with Le Duc Tho in Paris about a settlement. Kissinger assured the Hanoi leader that the United States was attacking North Vietnam only when its planes were attacked.

Le Duc Tho angrily insisted that the bombing went beyond "protective reaction."

Finally, in mid-November, he broke off the secret talks after more than a year of sporadic negotiating.

Kissinger had reason to know how sensitive the North Vietnamese were about negotiation under the gun. Back in 1967, he tried to get a dialogue going with the North Vietnamese. He sent two French friends, Herbert Marcovitch and Raymond Aubra, to Hanoi with a peace offering.

On their return to Paris, they stayed in regular contact for several months with North Vietnam's Mai Van Bo. But they couldn't persuade Bo to sit down with Kissinger, because the peace offer had coincided with the bombing of Hanoi.

As a gesture, the United States suspended the bombing temporarily. But Bo handed the two French emissaries a note declaring: "The bombing of Hanoi at the same time as the sending of the (peace) message constitutes a pressure. Stopping of the bombing along with the threat of a renewal has the character of an ultimatum."

When the Frenchmen pleaded, Bo stated firmly: "Because of the continued threat of bombing Hanoi, which has the character of an ultimatum, a direct meeting with Kissinger cannot take place."

Later, the Frenchmen urged Bo at least to have coffee with Kissinger at a private residence. "Let me think about how best to arrange a meeting," replied Bo, "and I will let you know."

But Bo finally explained, according to the secret record, "that Hanoi is reluctant to talk under duress with any officially connected American."

As Bo put it sharply: "The Americans are playing a double game. On the one hand, they are offering us peace. On the other, they increase their bombing."

Other overtures finally brought another written message from Bo, repeating: "I accept your expression of confidence in Kissinger, but at the moment when U.S. is increasing its escalation, it was not possible for me to see him."

Kissinger never was able to talk with Bo and the intermediaries finally gave up. This peace approach, known by the secret code name "Pennsylvania," failed in 1967.

Finally, in 1970, Kissinger held a series of secret meetings with Le Duc Tho. But these, too, were broken off after Lavelle's unauthorized bombing raids.

So far has Mayor John Lindsay fallen in the esteem of some New Yorkers, that after a meeting recently in Brooklyn, a sidewalk crowd of about 200 people pelted him with popcicle sticks and cigarette wrappers.

The crowd had learned he was meeting in Dubrow's, a popular Brooklyn restaurant, with the King's Highway Board of Trade. When he emerged, the largely middle-aged and elderly crowd shouted obscenities at him and flung their missiles.

Missing heiress

It may seem funny to Eve Arden and her assistant, Dennis Rucker (right), but Peter Morrison Jacobs and Savannah Bentley, as Dr. and Mrs. Singer, are convinced that the seedlings will be an important source of food when they arrive at their remote island home. The Singers are among a number of strange people questioned by Miss Arden, who plays an ex-schoolteacher turned private-eye, investigating the disappearance of an heiress in 'A Very Missing Person,' the ABC Television Network's 'Movie of the Week' Tuesday, 8:30-10 p.m.

Darlene Hawk bride in West End ceremony

STROUDSBURG — Miss Darlene Elizabeth Hawk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen E. Hawk, Saylorburg, was married on Saturday, June 17, at 4 p.m. to John Edgar Matthews. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Matthews, of 1001 W. Grant St., Blakely.

Rev. Paul Xander performed the double ring ceremony at Zion United Church, Lutheran, Brodheads. The altar was decorated with white gladiolas and white pom poms. Mrs. Frances Dorshimer was organist and Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher, soloist. She sang "Somewhere," "Theme From Love Story," "The Lord's Prayer," and "The Wedding Prayer." The acolyte was Roger Hawk, brother of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian style gown of chiffon over taffeta. The bodice featured a high neckline and long full sleeves. The skirt was Empire and featured a wide ruffle at the hemline. The lace trim on the gown and train was accented with pale pink ribbon. Her headpiece was a camelot cap trimmed with matching lace and pink ribbon. It was attached to a full bouffant veil of imported illusion. Her flowers were an empire style delphi daisy bouquet.

Miss Bobbe Getschman, of East Stroudsburg as maid of honor wore an A-line gown of maize chiffon over taffeta. The bodice, collar and sleeves were trimmed with white lace and match ribbon. Her headpiece was a matching picture hat. Miss Getschman carried an old fashioned nosegay of mixed flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Darlene Matthews, sister of the bridegroom, of Blakely; Miss Debra Kresge, cousin of the bride, of Kunkletown; Mrs. Judith Hawk, sister-in-law of the bride, Saylorburg. The flower girl was Miss Kim Berry, niece of the bridegroom, of Blakely. The bridesmaids and the flower girls gowns and hats were identical to the matron of honor, in blue, mint, orchid and pink and each carried an old fashioned nosegay of mixed flowers.

Frank Naumovitz, of Mayfield was best man. Ushers were Ernest Weston, of Blakely; Glenn Hawk, brother of the bride, Saylorburg, and Joseph Weston, of Blakely. Ring bearer was Timothy Eckhart, cousin of the bride, Brodheads.

The bride's mother wore an aqua coat and dress ensemble with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink and white print dress with matching accessories. They both wore corsages of white sweetheart roses with matching ribbon.

The bride was graduated from Pleasant Valley High School in 1969 and from Hartford Airline School in 1970. She is presently employed at Ver-Plex Co., Scranton. Matthews was graduated from Blakely High School in 1968. He is employed at R.C.A., in Dunmore.

A reception was held at the West End Fire Hall, Brodheads for 200 guests. After a week's honeymoon, the newlyweds will make their home in Blakely.

War I Aux. contributing to carnival

EAST STROUDSBURG — Three members of Pocono Memorial World War I Auxiliary attended the department convention in Williamsport in June. President Georgia Albertson, Amelia Baker and Viola Hefner.

Mrs. Albertson was appointed by the department president, Mrs. Josephine Grumblatt, as assistant guard for the coming year.

At the local meeting, the auxiliary voted a donation of $50 toward the purchase of articles for the Wilkes-Barre Veterans Administration Hospital Carnival. Members who have other articles to donate are asked to bring them to the local meeting on July 12. The Carnival will be held at the hospital on July 26.

Y Service Club plans work sessions

STROUDSBURG — The members of the YMCA service club held their covered dish supper at the home of Mrs. John Baujan.

Reports of the rummage sale were very favorable. Plans were made to make novelties and articles to prepare for the bazaar. Members are asked to come out at 7:30 p.m. on Mondays to prepare these items.

Mrs. David Katz, publicity chairman, has asked members to knit wool mittens for the Well Baby Clinic. Wool and directions will be supplied.

Attending were: Mrs. Lotie Ludwig, Mrs. Alice Baujan, Mrs. Clara DeVivo, Mrs. Frieda Novins, Mrs. Mary Katz, Mrs. Marian Hoffner, Mrs. Padma Jyengar, Mrs. Emily L. Place, Mrs. Joan Place, Mrs. Libby Bolch, Mrs. Ruth Smith, Mrs. Henrietta George, Mrs. Mary Harley, Mrs. Helen Van Why, Mrs. Sarah Wilson, Mrs. Yvonne Rodenhausen.

Plans for a dinner and to see a seasonal show were voted approved.

Mrs. Werkheiser showered with baby gifts

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Virginia Werkheiser was the guest of honor at a surprise baby shower given by her sister, Mrs. John Wisegarver at her home. Decorations were in pink and blue.

Each guest received a pink or blue majestic daisy corsage with a baby ornament attached. Mrs. Werkheiser was presented with a cradle of majestic daisies. Refreshments were served.

Attending were Mrs. Beulla Werkheiser, Mrs. Carl Dailey, Miss Joan Dailey, Mrs. Pam Scraffau, Miss Melissa Simmons, Mrs. Theodore Fish, Mrs. Eileen Cox, Mrs. Stanley Wisegarver, Mrs. Carl Rose, Mrs. Arthur Rundle, Miss Bonnie Smith, Mrs. Naomi Smith, Mrs. Carol Florey, Miss Carol Serfass, Miss Pam Fredericks, Mrs. J. Church honors its graduates, and fathers

STROUDSBURG — Graduates and fathers were honored at the combination service of the Missionary Alliance Church, Third St., Stroudsburg, on Sunday.

The Father's Day message was delivered by Stewart Woody, who also sang a solo, accompanied on the piano by his wife, Mrs. Lucille Woody. Kenneth Heckman played a piano solo.

Pastor Dawl conducted the service in honor of the high school graduates who were presented with a gift from the church by Joey Brooks. Graduates were Mark Adams, Benita Marie Johnson, Bonita C. Johnson, Arthur Owens, James Renfro and Phyllis Veney. Absent graduates were Donna Francis and Nicholas Swells.

After the service a dinner in honor of graduates and fathers was served.

Barbera Deck

September wedding date set

AMBLER — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nelson Deck of Ambler announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbera Carthene Deck, to John Edward Dzienisiewski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dzienisiewski of Panther.

Miss Deck is a 1970 graduate of Wissahickon High School and a 1972 graduate of Montgomery County Community College.

Her fiancé is a 1969 graduate of Wallenpaupack Area High School and is employed at Reichman Welding Co.

A September wedding is planned.

Rain better

STROUDSBURG — Forty members of Glen Brook Women's Golf Assn. turned up at the clubhouse at 9 a.m. Thursday morning, not for golf on the rain-soaked course but to plan for coming events and vote on modification of rules because of the rainy spring.

Peg Gould presided at the meeting, when it was voted to re-schedule Thursday's tournament to Tuesday, teeing off at 9 a.m. after the tournament for men from the Pocono 500. There will also be a tournament on the regular Thursday, although some of the members will be playing at the Pocono 500 Women's Tournament at Pocono Manor that day.

Plans were also discussed for the invitational tournament on July 6, the member-guest day on July 13 and the trip to York on July 11.

Mrs. Gould also reported on the condition of the course. While wet, the course has not yet suffered from flooding from the creek, and the staff is spraying for fungus which might develop because of the long wet spell. A few days of sunny weather at this point would restore it to prime condition.

After the lengthy meeting, many of the members stayed to play cards.

Race week wives join princesses as models

STROUDSBURG — The models for the Raceway to Fashions show will be of as much interest as the fashions with six wives of drivers in the Schaefer 500 and 14 coed Pocono Festival Princesses chosen to model special raceweek fashions from two Stroudsburg shops.

The show will be a luncheon in the courtyard of the Pocono Sheraton in Stroudsburg on Wednesday, June 28, at 12:30 p.m. and is open to the public. Fashions will be from 509 Bazaar and Herbs' His 'n Her Shop, Stroudsburg.

The drivers' wives will be Wanda Unser, Betty Rutherford, Joyce Vukovich, Leslie Bettenhausen, Joyce Poorman and Paye Johncock.

The princesses are Constant Foster, Southern Seminary; Andrea Alicini, Trenton State; Phyllis Dellsandris, Union; Karen Sakocius, King's; Emily Hubbell, Alfred University; Mary Russo, University of Akron; Lori Johnson, Bloomsburg State; Marilyn Torrenti, Wilkes; Leta Jo Myer, Mansfield State; Debra Butters, Lock Haven State; Jean Ann Balaga, Marywood; Janie Grider, Muhlenberg; Georgine Fidmick, East Stroudsburg State and Daveda Brown, Harcum Junior College.

The drivers' wives who like to be at the track when their husbands are in action were persuaded to leave for fittings during the heavy rains, while the Princesses were swept from their welcome luncheon straight into the fitting rooms.

Co-chairmen for the event, Mrs. Michael Miller and Mrs. James Driebe, are expecting a sellout crowd for the luncheon at which the wives of all the drivers will be guests of Pocono area women and the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

The Pussycat theme will prevail throughout the show with large stuffed animals to be given as special prizes. Through the sponsorship of the Brown Forman Co., each guest at the luncheon will be given a complimentary "Pussycat" drink.

The luncheon will begin at 12:30 p.m. Master of ceremonies will be Michael Miller, whose beauty salon in Stroudsburg will be giving all the models complimentary hairdos the morning of the show.

Tickets are on sale at the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau and at Pocono Copy Quick, Main St., Stroudsburg.

where you sit, and thinking about the ruined vacation, strawberry crops, race preliminaries, weedgrown gardens and overgrown lawns, against an universally gray gloom aggravates the symptoms.

Especially against the nagging feeling that this seemed a little reminiscent of 1955, reinforced by flood alerts and pictures of other flooded areas.

Even the most determined Pollyannas had trouble. It's great weather for sleeping late — if you aren't wakened by news of a leaking roof or flooded cellars.

We can be thankful for the invention of clothes driers. Wonder if you still had to hang everything outdoors or try to dry diapers on wooden racks? No wonder, mothers used to be so insistent about early toilet training.

One thing everybody seemed agreed upon however: this was a good week to have over.

Soroptimist convention coming up

STROUDSBURG — The Soroptimist Club of Monroe County announces that the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas Inc. will hold its 22nd biennial convention in Chicago July 16-20.

Mrs. Jean Barthold, Stroudsburg, president said the convention will be attended by delegates from 910 local Soroptimist Clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Panama, Costa Rica, Brazil, Venezuela, Peru, Chile, Japan, Korea and The Philippines.

Soroptimist is the world's largest women's classified service organization with 50,000 professional and business women in executive capacities as members. The name is a combination of the Latin words "soro" for sister and "optima" for best and means "the best for women."

Although not a women's liberation group, they have worked to advance the status of women through individual achievements.

Presiding over the convention at the Palmer House in Chicago will be Miss Katharine Stinson of Washington, D.C. She was the first woman to obtain a degree in engineering from North Carolina State University and the first woman Aerospace engineer to be employed by the Federal Aviation Administration.

President-elect is Mrs. Eileen M. Bidwell, an educator of El Centro, Calif.

Price-control rule? rule?

NEW YORK (UPI)—The prospect grew this week that prices and wage controls are going to last for a long time in the United States regardless of the presidential election outcome.

Chairman Herbert Stein of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors said the potential of a total federal deficit of $40 billion could compel prolonged controls. The President himself said he was considering extending existing controls to meats and other agricultural products. The Agriculture Department predicted that not only meats but also poultry and eggs, which have been almost the only important foods to remain cheap (they sold earlier this year at prices lower than 40 years ago), will advance in price this summer.

Lending emphasis to the growing awareness that the need for price and wage controls is not disappearing was a new advance in interest rates on both sides of the Atlantic.

Britain raised its bank rate, somewhat comparable to the Federal Reserve System's discount rate in the United States, to 6 percent from 5 percent. First National City Bank in New York raised its floating rate for prime business loans to 5 1/2 percent from 5 1/4 percent. Other banks also raised prime rates.

Britain announced it would float the pound on the world's money markets for the near future.

There had been predictions for days that prime rates would move up and possibly that the Federal discount rate may climb.

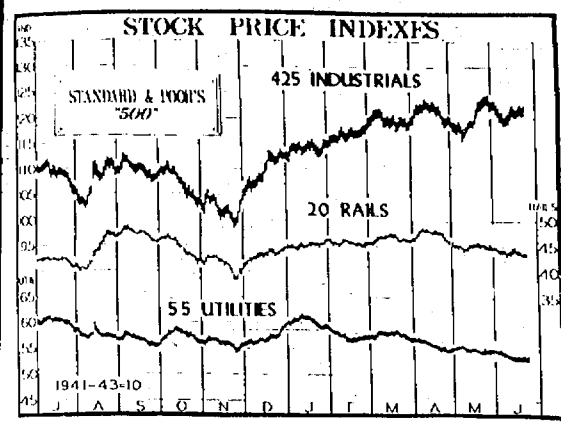

The President's announcement he was considering controlling meat and other basic food prices followed recommendations to do so from the Price Commission.

Discontent over high prices was somewhat aggravated by an accusation made in a Senate staff study that the Agriculture Department is withholding $658 million that Congress has authorized in food subsidies that should be going to 11 million poor persons.

Business activity was a little on the quiet side. The stock market advanced slightly in moderate trading. Retail sales were up 3 percent from last week and up 9 percent from a year ago.

Auto industry leaders said the first $10.5 million year in sales of new domestic cars is now "in the bag." Nevertheless, scheduled output for the third quarter was cut 0.6 percent from the previously anticipated rate.

Net mutual fund redemptions in May were disclosed to have hit $206.8 million after April's record $240 million.

Britain 'pounds' market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Concern over Britain's decision to allow the pound to float sent the stock market lower Friday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones average of 30 selected blue-chip industrial stocks lost 6.02 to 944.69. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index fell 0.41 to 108.27. The average price of a New York Stock Exchange common share decreased by 18 cents.

Declines outnumbered advances, 825 to 550, among 1,734 issues crossing the tape. Turnover totaled 13,940,000 shares, up slightly from the 13,410,000 traded Thursday.

Investors, generally, watched for the effects of Britain's pound decision. Responses were mixed about speculation England would devalue the pound. The Treasury Department discounted the idea, while others insisted London would be forced into such an action.

Analysts said this has led many investors to wonder about the stability of the Smithsonian agreement reached in Washington last December to bring some order to international currencies.

Another dampening factor was the decision of some leading banks to raise their prime lending rates to 5 1/4 percent from 5 percent.

Again, much of the activity was centered in the glamours, electronics and computers. There was some profit taking, but analysts said the selling pressure was not great.

Magnavox was the most active issue for the day, off 1/2 at 33 1/4 on 278,000 shares, including a block of 147,800 shares at 32 1/4.

Travelers Corp. was second, off 1/4 at 38 1/4 on 246,900 shares, including a block of 200,000 shares at 38. General Foods was third, down 7/8 at 26 1/4 on 230,500 shares, including a block of 180,800 shares at 26 1/4.

Glamors were under profit taking pressure. Itek lost 2, and Polaroid, Xerox, Tectron, Corning Glass, Walt Disney, Bausch & Lomb, Schlumberger and Wm. Barrington around a point each.

Control Data surrendered 2 1/4 in the electronics and computers. Motorola dropped 1 1/4 and Zenith and Fairchild Camera, a point each. Texas Instruments bucked the trend, gaining 1 1/4.

Oil generally headed lower. Superior Oil plunged 3, Natco 2 1/4 and Kerr-McGee 1.

Chemicals were mixed. Du Pont gave up 1 1/4 and Union Carbide 3/4. Union Carbide resided a price boost on sodium acetate anhydride for competitive reasons.

Summer camp scheduled by 'Y'

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Y.M.C.A. will hold its annual summer day camp program for the fifth consecutive year at Hidden Lake, off Route 209 in Middle Smithfield Township.

The year's program is broken into three two-week periods with the first July 10-21, second, July 24-Aug. 4 and Aug. 7-18.

The program is open to boys and girls aged seven to 13. Campers are placed in small groups by age and sex, and named after Indian tribes that frequented this area.

These groups are then supervised by a counselor and a counselor-in-training, who are directly responsible to adult supervision.

The program encourages sportsmanship, self-reliance, teamwork, spiritual growth, awareness of nature and the art of getting along with others.

The camp, furnished to the "Y" by the National Park Service, has passed a standards examination and is fully accredited by the American Camping Assn.

Horace S. Cole will serve as camp director for the fourth straight year. A lifetime resident of Monroe County, Cole has taught elementary physical education and supervised recreational activities for the past nine years in the East Stroudsburg School District.

Registrations are being made now, and Cole urges all parents to register early if their child is to be assured a spot. Campers can register at the "Y" and complete a camp brochure there or mail it. Additional information may be obtained by phoning 421-2525.

'Y' sets program to aid campers

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County YMCA has instituted a program to enable many needy children to attend "Y" camp who otherwise would be unable to participate because of financial conditions in the home.

The YMCA has worked closely with the United Church Women and the Children's Bureau of Monroe County in obtaining the names of children who would most likely benefit from a day camping experience.

They have also received help

Camelback Playhouse opens today

TANNERSVILLE — Camelback Summer Playhouse opens its 1972 season today with a two-week engagement of the musical spoof, "Little Mary Sunshine."

The spoof of the operettas that brought fame to Jeanette McDonald and Nelson Eddy will feature music and lyrics by Rick Besoyan. The professional cast will be headed by Harrison Summers, as the captain of the Forest Rangers and Jacqueline Johnson as Little Mary.

The remainder of the playhouse's schedule features "Guys and Dolls," July 10-22; "Kiss Me Kate," July 24; August 5; "You're a Good Man, Charley Brown," Aug. 7-19; "Camelot," Aug. 21-Sept. 2; and "I Do," Sept. 5-16. Performances are nightly (except Sundays) at 8:30, with matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays at 2:30 p.m.

from several of the public school nurses in the screening of names for potential campers.

Many of the needy families make direct requests to the YMCA and the "Y" attempts to investigate the background of the family and its need for financial assistance. Last camping season, 30 youngsters were given an opportunity to spend a week or two in camp.

Civic organizations such as the Stroud Community Women's Club, Kiwanis Club, Coin Club, Leisure Hour Club, "Y" Women's Service Group, Industrial Management Club, M.O.R.A. Club, and Optimist Club have contributed along with several local resorts and private individuals thus far this year.

Any interested organization or individual can make a contribution to the campership fund by mailing a check to the Monroe County YMCA located at 809 Main St. in Stroudsburg.

The choir has a varied repertoire, including gospel, folk, and contemporary songs, as well as the more traditional hymn music of the church.

There is no admission charge to the concert, but donations will be accepted to help defray expenses.

Obituaries

Neubert T. Cleusen
 EAST STROUDSBURG — Neubert T. Cleusen, 81, of Delaware Water Gap, died Thursday night in the General Hospital of Monroe County. He was the husband of Anna (Williges) Cleusen, at home.

Born in Pellworm, Germany, he was a resident of Delaware Water Gap for the past 30 years. Prior to moving to the area, he had resided in Jersey City, N.J.

He was a retired glove manufacturer. He was of the Lutheran faith.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by a son, Kurt W. Cleusen, at home, and one brother, Richard C. Cleusen, of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday from the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home, Ninth Street, Stroudsburg, with Rev. William C. Leopold officiating.

There will be no visitation.

Burial will be in the Delaware Water Gap Cemetery.

Viewing will be after 7 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home. Burial will be in St. Paul's Reformed Cemetery, Swiftwater.

Schools receive $22,375

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — A total of $22,375.93, representing 70 per cent of the total due, is being paid by the State Department of Education to four Monroe County school districts covering part of the costs of conducting special classes for handicapped pupils during the 1970-71 school year.

The payments are being made to the school districts as follows: East Stroudsburg, $7,660.66; Pleasant Valley, $4,929.98; Pocono Mountain, $2,909.50; and Stroudsburg, $7,475.79.

In Pike County, Delaware Valley receives $6,148.98 as their share of state funds.

Any school district not on the current list had been previously paid for this purpose or will be included in a list being prepared for payment.

Food stamp use declines

NEW YORK — April became the second consecutive month in which the number of Pennsylvanians receiving food stamps declined.

During the month, 621,601 low income persons participated in the family food assistance program, which was 15,263 fewer than in March.

In Monroe County, 1,340 residents participated in the food stamp program during the month of April, as compared to 1,401 in March.

Participation by Pike County residents dropped from 229 in March to 211 in April.

Fire in car extinguished

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg firemen extinguished a car fire at the Stroud Ford garage after a workman lit a blowtorch too close to the car's gas tank, causing it to explode.

Thirty-four men and five pieces of equipment responded to the blaze at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday. There were no injuries, although the car was a total loss.

County home employees unionize by 42-0 vote

By GARY GROSSMAN
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Workers at Pleasant Valley Manor, the county home, unionized Friday in a unanimous 42-0 vote for representation by the American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

The union will probably be officially certified within 10 days. A contract may be ready for negotiation in 90 days. The union vote took place despite the possibility of questionable action by the Monroe County Commissioners.

Two notices had been posted by the county, signed by all three commissioners, urging workers at the Manor to vote "no" on the union.

The notice on a bulletin board next to the workers' time clock read:

"On June 23, 1972, you will have an opportunity to vote in a Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board election. The question is whether you want to be represented by a labor union."

"First, we urge you to vote. Representation by a labor union is too important a question to be determined by 'someone else'. Please cast your vote. It is a secret ballot election and no one will know how you voted."

"Second, we urge you to vote 'no'. You don't need a stranger to represent you. You don't have to pay union dues. You can join a union anytime."

"Vote no" appeared beneath the announcement in capital letters with the signatures of Commissioners Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis, William F. Quinn and Arlington Martin at the bottom.

Scrawled just to the left of the signatures on the notice was "vote yes" — apparently the work of an employee with a ballpoint pen.

Had the vote gone against the union, that notice might have been a point of contention. But after the votes were tallied, a union member was overheard saying "It doesn't matter what they put up. We beat them."

Mrs. Shukaitis, chairman of the board of commissioners, said the commissioners posted the notices on the advice of a labor attorney hired by the county when it became apparent county workers were going union at the county home.

"Attorney Hayes (John Hayes of Allentown) felt we had a responsibility to let the employees know the commissioners had a position," Mrs. Shukaitis said. "We respected his judgment."

Hayes, who has so far been paid $1,038 for his services, may be retained throughout the negotiations with the union. The commissioners all indicated Friday the matter of keeping Hayes will have to be considered by the board.

The commissioners said after the election they expected the vote to go for unionization. Quinn said now the real business with the county home workers will begin.

Mrs. Shukaitis indicated simply that she was not surprised by the vote. Martin said only he would congratulate the workers on their efforts.

It is the first time any group of public employees has decided to organize on the county level in Monroe County. AFSCME coordinator Ernest Rewolinski has said his union will continue efforts in the county until all county and municipal employees are unionized.

Voting began at 2:30 p.m. in the large concrete basement at Pleasant Valley Manor where state Labor Relations Board official Martin Cavanaugh had set up a small table and a portable voting booth.

One by one the workers eligible to vote stepped behind the canvass curtain of the folding aluminum booth to drop their ballots in a cardboard box.

At 3:30 p.m. voting ended and all but two male employees had been accounted for on the voter lists. Cavanaugh emptied the ballots onto a table, sorted them and then began reading the vote.

Again and again his voice clipped out "AFSCME, AFSCME..." as a worker at the table announced "five, 10, 15". County Home Administrator Lawrence Butz paced nervously with his hands locked behind his back.

Hayes and Rewolinski looked on. "AFSCME" was called for the 42nd time and the ballots were all in one pile. Hayes reviewed the votes.

Depot land may be sold

Ottawa News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The General Services Administration (GSA) has recommended that the Pentagon sell off nearly half of its Tobyhanna Army Depot acreage because it is "of excessive need."

The recommendation, a GSA spokesman said, is only "tentative" and must await a confirming opinion by the Department of Defense which studied the Tobyhanna situation with the GSA.

The full GSA recommendation isn't available publicly, but an administration spokesman said it calls for disposal of 683 of Tobyhanna's 1,420 acres.

This property would include "just vacant land," the spokesman said, and would not involve any on-site facilities now in use.

The spokesman added that GSA's recommendation would have nothing to do with jobs or services at the depot.

Until the defense department submits its own recommendation, the spokesman said, no action will be taken at Tobyhanna.

"It's very possible they will disagree," the spokesman added. "Anything is possible."

Federal agencies other than the Department of Defense would have the first opportunity to buy the land.

Tocks park possible if dam gets bumped

By ANDREA B. STERN
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — It appears the 1965 federal legislative marriage of the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area to the Tocks Island dam could be annulled without ever reaching the floors of Congress.

The Department of the Interior disputes the contention that the Recreation Area could not come into being unless the dam is also built, but the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers remains firm in its belief the two are linked together by law and could not be separated — except by Congressional action.

If the dam is scrapped, the land acquired for the proposed reservoir would, under federal law, be transferred to the General Services Administration. The Department of Interior could then apply to have it annexed to the park, according to Nathaniel Reed, assistant secretary of the Interior.

Reed disclosed this in a recent letter to Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.) who had inquired where the Recreation Area would stand if the dam is not given an environmentally sound bill of health.

Harold Lockwood, chairman of the Save the Delaware Coalition (SDC) said his staff has verified Reed's claim with high echelon Washington officials.

"A corollary to this question, if the Tocks Island Lake project were to be scrapped all together, then the land which has been acquired for this would be excess to the needs of the secretary of the Army and would be reported to the General Services Administration for disposition under the Real Property and Administrative Services Act of 1948," Reed responded to Case's inquiry.

"If this were to happen, we would certainly apply for transfer of the additional land now totalling about 10,000 acres to be added to the recreational area lands which would increase the land area available for recreation by 25 per cent," he added.

Reed further stated the move would not require any additional legislation.

Meanwhile, the Corps' deputy chief in Washington, D.C. asserts this is not the case, maintaining the two projects are linked by federal law.

Maj. Gen. A.P. Rollins Jr. recently informed the Tocks Island Citizens Association, "We agree with your interpretation of the law authorizing the National Recreation Area in that it is part of the Tocks Island Lake project and the two are tied together. We are not aware of any plans being seriously advanced to separate them."

Taken from study

In his reply to Case, Reed further offered a revised plan for the Recreation Area without the dam which he took from a National Park Service in-house study released in September.

While this alternative concept for the park would give less emphasis to water-oriented facilities, Reed stressed water recreation would still not be "seriously lacking."

"By utilizing the existing stream where we control some seven miles below the site... and by obtaining the excess land of the Department of the Army, we would gain another 11 or more miles of river front which it has heretofore purchased under the Flood Control Act," he outlined.

Under the revised concept, Reed said there would still be adequate swimming facilities and "emphasis on the more subdued forms of boating such as canoeing" on the stream and the area's various ponds.

"By having many separate water recreation units, this would provide a greater variety with family and organizational groups having... more privacy, freedom and seclusion than might have ever been hoped for in large complexes..." he maintained.

Assessing Reed's conclusions, Lockwood noted that while the SDC — long time dam opponents — favors the concept of a national park, the coalition wants assurances the land will be used in "an environmentally sound manner" before throwing in its support.

Red Cross to aid victims

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Chapter of Red Cross has been assigned a quota of $870 in the $5 million nationwide fund drive to assist survivors of the Rapid City flood disaster.

Atty. Lester Brown, local chapter chairman, said the special drive has the support of the Monroe County Community Chest. He noted that the South Dakota tragedy "came at a time when Red Cross disaster funds have been wiped out by recent floods in Kentucky, West Virginia, Texas, and Washington."

Brown said the full recovery resources of the Red Cross have been mobilized to help. He added "some 4,000 homes were destroyed or seriously damaged by the raging torrent, and about 800 mobile homes suffered a similar fate."

Brown urged Monroe County residents to "respond generously" by sending contributions to the chapter office, 509 Scott Street, Stroudsburg.

Road oiling boils residents

CRESCO — Residents living along Clark's Road near here say they have oil everywhere but where it should be — Clark's Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Clark Jr. aren't griping too much about oil covering their shoes. But they are a bit miffed to see oil caked on two cars, three cats, one dog and a robin.

They don't think the robin will live. And they say the dog has thrown up from licking the oil on his fur.

The dirt road was oiled late Tuesday afternoon by Arthur DePue, contracted by the Paradise Township Supervisors.

Supervisor Chairman Everett P. Ross and the residents blame DePue for conditions. They say he didn't post warning signs until the day after the oil was placed.

DePue said Friday residents "just drove too fast for conditions" and had no other comment.

Ross said he has received numerous complaints and claimed no one knew DePue was going to oil the road Tuesday.

"It's disgraceful," said Mrs. Leona Kippler, who lives down the road from the Clarks. "It looked like oil wells out here the other day."

Mrs. Kippler says she has washed several furniture covers stained by oily pet tracks by soaking them first in kerosene.

"They ought to have better sense than to put oil down before a rain," says another resident on the road. "Anybody who knows anything about road work knows you have to put oil on when it's dry."

Mr. and Mrs. Clark, meanwhile, say they don't know what to do or who to complain to. They say they'll just have to continue cleaning their shoes after every trip out of the house.

Unpaid bills redden books

EAST STROUDSBURG — Past due accounts have reached "crisis proportions" at the General Hospital of Monroe County, according to Charles E. Swisher Jr., hospital administrator.

Accounts receivable directly from patients delinquent 90 days or more total $650,000.

"The situation must be rectified — and soon," Swisher said. "No profit making business could function under such conditions. How can the hospital be expected to with no profit cushion to fall back on?"

Swisher said accounts must be kept current if the hospital expects to continue operation. Many people have the mistaken notion the hospital is a county institution and can look to government for financial assistance in times of need, Swisher said.

The use of "Monroe County" as the hospital's name is purely a geographic reference and not political, he said, and the hospital is a private, non-profit community institution.

The only support the hospital receives from the county is an annual stipend of $5,000. This is applied to, but doesn't cover, cost of services to wards of the county, such as prisoners or residents at Pleasant Valley Manor not covered by insurance.

While the National Institutes of Mental Health provide a staff grant for salaries for professionals in the mental health unit, the hospital receives no other on-going governmental support, he said.

Swisher said operating expenses, currently about $6.5 million, must be met through patient fees. Community Chest, fund raising activities of the auxiliary, bequests and other help covers the cost of new or replacement equipment and the relatively small amount of charity work the hospital performs.

National surveys concur with the Monroe facility's condition — showing hospital conditions rank at the bottom when it comes time to pay bills.

Toll bridge traffic increases according to commission

MORRISVILLE — Chester L. Errico, former chairman of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, has announced that 2,524,589 vehicles used the commission's six toll bridges during the month of May, representing an increase of nearly 125,000 vehicles over the same period of a year ago.

During the month, the Millford-Upper Black Eddy Free Bridge handled 98,705 vehicles, compared with 98,090 during May of last year. The increase resulted in a percentage increase of 0.63 per cent, with daily averages put at 3,184 passengers.

The Belvidere-Riverton Free Bridge showed an increase of 12.93 per cent, with 90,329 vehicles using the bridge as compared to 79,987 crossing the facility during May of last year. The daily average increased from 2,580 to 2,914.

Traffic on the Delaware Water Gap Toll Bridge during May showed an increase of 7.2 per cent, while revenue increased more than 10 per cent compared to May of last year.

441,885 vehicles used the toll bridge during the month to provide a daily average of 14,251 passengers. Income for the month exceeded $164,000, thus providing a daily income of more than $5,000. A total of 411,971 vehicles used the bridge in May, 1971, with a monetary yield of $149,000.

Traffic at the bridge is up 10.5 per cent for the first five months of 1972, with revenue up 13.5 per cent. More than 1,735,000 vehicles have used the bridge, yielding $701,058.30 in revenues. This provided an average daily income of $4,612.23 and an average daily use of 11,421 vehicles.

Vehicular traffic at the Portland-Columbia Toll Bridge increased by more than four per cent, but income was off nearly 15 per cent compared to May of last year. 58,157 vehicles used the bridge during May to provide a daily average of 1,876 passengers, with income set at $312.68 per day.

Traffic is up nearly six per cent for the first five months, with revenue up 9.2 per cent. More than 240,000 vehicles have used the bridge, yielding $36,515.25 and providing an average daily use of 1,562 vehicles and $240.23 in revenue.

Nearly 89,000 vehicles used the Millford-Montague Toll Bridge during May to provide a daily average of 2871 passengers. Income for May totalled $14,677.70, providing an average of $473.47.

The vehicle total was off 1,500 from last year, when income was listed at $14,853.70.

Traffic is up this year as a whole, however, with revenue showing an equal increase. More than 307,000 vehicles have used the bridge this year, yielding $49,824.65. Such figures provide a daily use of 2,025 vehicles and $327.79 per day.

Peterson named chairman of toll bridge commission

STROUDSBURG — W.C.G. (Bud) Peterson of Stroudsburg has been elected chairman of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission.

Peterson, a supervisor for the Bell Telephone Company, was named to the post to succeed Chester Errico by Governor Milton Shapp. He will serve a year's term as chairman of the eight member bi-state commission.

Elected vice president was Milton Woolfenden, Jr., who is serving his third year on the commission.

The commission's bylaws state the chairmanship should be rotated between New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The eight seats on the commission are shared evenly by both states.

Peterson also serves as chairman of Monroe County's Democratic Party.

In other business, the com-

W.C.G. Peterson

mission awarded a building construction contract for an addition to the maintenance garage at the Easton-Phillipsburg toll bridge to a Roseto firm.

The contract went to Calviero Contracting for the low bid of $69,432.

Another contract, for plumbing and drainage went to R.J. Groner Co., of Stroudsburg for $5,365.

Time trials postponed at Pocono

By CHUCK FIERSON
Record Sports Editor

LONG POND — She roared in Wednesday acting anything like a lady. By Friday afternoon Pocono International Raceway had felt the full effects of tropical storm Agnes.

The most serious outcome of the torrential downpour was a postponement of qualifications for the July 2 Schaefer 500 which were to begin this morning.

Dick King, competition director for the United States Auto Club, and Bill Marvel, Pocono general manager, announced Friday morning that the qualifications will now be held Thursday and Friday.

All race ticket holders for the Schaefer 500, Sunoco qualifying ticket holders and Kodak Camera Day ticket holders will be allowed to attend qualifications both Thursday and Friday.

The relentless rains also wiped out all practice running at the track, at least for Friday and today. A decision is expected to be made at 2 p.m. today as to whether the track can be reopened for practice Sunday.

There has been only one full day of practice time (Tuesday) since the track opened for practice last Saturday.

King said that major factors forcing the postponement of the qualifying runs include:

— Many roads in the area are closed by high water.

— State police are busy handling flood disaster areas and would not be available for traffic duty.

— The track would not be usable at least until Sunday and there would not have been sufficient practice time to qualify then.

— Track firemen may be needed for flood duty.

The revised schedule will have drivers practicing from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday. Practice is also scheduled from 8 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. Thursday and Friday.

Qualifications are set from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Also washed out by the flood conditions were USAC sprint car races scheduled for Williams Grove tonight and Selinsgrove Sunday night.

Continuous rains have turned part of the garage area at Pocono International Raceway into a sea of mud and water.

Hayes traded to Baltimore for Marin, considerations

HOUSTON (UPI)—Center Elvin Hayes, the leading scorer in the history of the Houston Rockets and one of the top players in the National Basketball Association, was traded by the Rockets to the Baltimore Bullets Friday night for forward Jack Marin and undisclosed future considerations.

President Ray Patterson said the considerations had not been determined and they could be either draft choices, existing players or cash.

The 6-9 Hayes, who averaged 27.4 points a game in his four years with the Rockets, became expendable when Houston acquired 6-11 Otto Moore from the Phoenix Suns last spring. Hayes was expected to move to forward next year with Moore playing center.

The 6-6 1/2 Marin is one of the best forwards in the NBA, Patterson said. He has an 18.7 point average for his six years in the league, including a high of 22.3 last season.

Marin, 27, a graduate of Duke University, led the NBA in free throw shooting last season with an 89.4 percentage.

Hayes, 26, who was a three-time All-America at the University of Houston, led the NBA in scoring as a rookie in 1968-69 with a 28.4 average. He has not missed a game in four seasons and has a 328 game streak intact.

"Coach Tex Winter is a team concept man," Patterson said.

"We have to fit into that style and I feel we made a great stride forward with this trade," Patterson, who became president and general manager of the Rockets last month, said Hayes was trying to renegotiate his current 10 year contract. Patterson said he was unable to contact Hayes to tell him about the trade because all of his dealing with Hayes had been through his attorney. Patterson notified the attorneys.

Warriors to get Barry until 1974

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge Friday ordered Rick Barry to honor a five-year $1 million contract signed with the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association in October 1969.

District Judge Alfonso Zirpoli granted an injunction barring the scoring ace of the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association from playing for any other club until the contract runs out in 1974.

"Unless Barry is enjoined from playing for the New York Nets or any other professional team...San Francisco will suffer irreparable and permanent injuries," the judge ruled.

When the contract was signed on Oct. 2, 1969, the team was known as the San Francisco Warriors. It later changed its name to the Golden State Warriors.

Barry signed the contract when he was playing with the Oakland Oaks. He previously played with the Warriors. He took the action when the franchise was sold to a Washington, D.C. combine.

Barry later jumped to the Virginia Squires of the ABA and then signed with the Nets.

Franklin Miele, owner of the Warriors, sought the injunction on grounds his original contract with Barry was binding.

Barry himself said he did not wish to return to San Francisco.

Mayberry leads Royals to victory

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—John Mayberry drove in four runs including three via a three-run eighth inning homer to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 5-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday night behind the seven-hit pitching of Paul Spittorff.

Signing of Hull expected Tuesday

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI)—Superstar Bobby Hull of the Chicago Blackhawks is expected Tuesday to sign a contract worth nearly $3 million with the Winnipeg Jets of the newly-formed World Hockey Association, a spokesman for the team said Friday.

"We expect Bobby to sign Tuesday," said Jets spokesman Annis Stukis. "Arrangements are being made for him to be in Winnipeg Tuesday morning for a chartered flight to WHA headquarters in Minneapolis-St. Paul to sign one contract with the WHA."

"Then he will fly back to Winnipeg for an expected signing with the Jets at the downtown intersection of Portage and Main streets Tuesday afternoon."

Stukis said the contract offer for the 33-year-old National Hockey League leftwinger was "somewhere around $3 million, give or take a couple hundred thousand." He said the contract included a five-year playing pact, after which he would go into management.

"If and when it happens,

Bobby expects to move to Winnipeg and settle down," Stukis said. "The way it stands now, when his playing days are over, he would go into hockey management with Winnipeg."

Stukis said Hull, one of the all-time leading scorers in the National Hockey League and the greatest star Chicago ever had, is interested in buying property in the Winnipeg area.

Pocono Downs halts third straight program tonight

WILKES-BARRE — Pocono Downs has cancelled its 10-race harness racing program for tonight, the third straight washout as a result of damage wrecked by tropical storm Agnes.

Thursday and Friday nights programs were also cancelled.

General manager Ed Gilkey said a roadway leading from the stable area to the track was washed away by an overflowing creek which passes through the barn area. Power and water lines were also damaged.

Gilkey indicated that racing would be resumed Monday night with the $19,437 Pennsylvania Sires Stake for two-year-old trotting colts highlighting the program. This stake event was originally scheduled for Friday.

Meanwhile, while maintenance crews pushed repairs in order that racing could be resumed Monday, the track was pressed into service as a helicopter evacuation center Friday afternoon.

Scores of flood victims in the Wilkes-Barre area were landed by Navy and Marine helicopters on the track infield.

Jamieson opens lead by two strokes

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (UPI)—Jim Jamieson, a carefree fat man looking for his first victory on the professional golf tour, shot a four-under-par 67 Friday to take a two-stroke lead after the second round of the Western Open.

Jamieson, a former Illinois amateur champion whose fans made up much of the gallery, survived treacherous late afternoon winds that led to his only two bogeys in posting his second successive subpar round and a 36 hole score of 135.

Doug Sanders, wearing thermal underwear to ward off the morning chill, moved into second place with a five-under-par 66 and a 137 total. J.C. Sneed, who shot 67 Friday, was third at 138.

Heat may be main factor in all-America contest

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Temperatures will be in the 90s when they kick off the 1972 football season tonight, and by the time the fourth quarter gets here Chuck Fairbanks figures the winner might simply be the team that can stay on its feet.

The occasion is the 12th annual Coaches All-America game, the first of too many to count football games between now and the end of January, and it serves as a showcase for the leading 1972 professional rookies. Or at least some of them.

Only eight of the 26 first-round professional draft choices will be competing in the game, and just two of the first 10 picks—tackle Lionel Antonine of Southern Illinois (picked by Chicago) and defensive back Willie Buchanan of San Diego State (selected by Green Bay)—will be on hand.

In addition to that each squad is limited to 30 players, and Fairbanks, the head coach at Oklahoma who will guide the West, thinks that might not be enough.

"The thing that could hurt us, both teams, is a lack of depth,"

Fairbanks said.

"We are limited to only 30 players, and this time of year it is hard to play with just 30 guys. One thing out here, though, it has cooled off pretty quickly after the sun goes down."

The only trouble, however, is that it won't get really dark until about midway through the second half.

The game, played for the third year at Jones Stadium on the campus of Texas Tech University, has an 8:30 EDT kickoff and will be nationally televised. A crowd of 44,000—capacity—is expected.

Despite the absence of some big names—including top draft picks Walt Patulski of Notre Dame, Sherman White of California, Robert Moore of Oregon and Riley Odoms of Houston—there will be talent on display. And the majority of the big names on hand will be playing for the West.

Fairbanks will get to choose at quarterback between the players who led the nation's top two teams last season, Jerry Tagge of Nebraska and Jack Mildren of Oklahoma.

"I don't know who we will start at quarterback," Fairbanks said on the eve of the game. "Both will obviously play a lot. It will not make much difference who is in. We will be all right with either of them in there."

Tagge is one of the first-round draft picks to play in the game. He will be joined on the West by first-round selections Jeff Kinney, a running back from Nebraska picked by Kansas City, Larry Jacobson, a defensive lineman from Nebraska taken by the New York Giants and Buchanan.

The East, coached by Bear Bryant of Alabama, has first-round choices Royce Smith, an offensive lineman from Georgia picked by New Orleans, Tom Darden, a defensive back from Michigan taken by Cleveland, Mike Taylor, a linebacker from Michigan selected by the New York Jets and Antoine.

Bryant's quarterbacks will be Paul Miller of North Carolina, who was not selected in the player draft, and Tennessee State's Joe Gilliam, who went in the 11th round to Pittsburgh.

"I think you will see more running in this game than in most all star games," said Bryant, "because both teams have so many good runners. What you are not going to see probably is one team throwing three times and kicking."

Each team has won the game since the series moved to Lubbock from Atlanta, and overall the West has a 6-5 lead.

Southeastern Conference picks teacher as new head

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—The Southeastern Conference, one of the nation's wealthiest collegiate athletic leagues, Friday picked Dr. H. Boyd McWhorter, an English teacher, as its new commissioner.

McWhorter, dean of the school of arts and sciences at the University of Georgia since 1968 and assistant to the university president, was appointed to succeed retiring A. M. "Tonto" Coleman, the SEC commissioner since 1966.

At 49, McWhorter, a native of Calhoun, Ga., is the youngest SEC commissioner ever. He signed a six-year contract, effective Aug. 1, but declined to discuss salary. Coleman was paid $25,000 a year.

"I think intercollegiate athletics face a challenge the like of which it has never known in the next decade and a half," the new commissioner said.

"The number one challenge is credibility," he said. "I took this job with the hope that I can in some way enhance that credibility. Intercollegiate athletics have been questioned by all segments—the students, the faculty, school administrations, the alumni and the public," McWhorter said.

"The one thing that has disturbed me is that most of the attacks have come from inside the community which should be supporting the athletic program," he said. McWhorter said he has no plans to move the SEC headquarters from Birmingham and the staff assembled by Coleman will remain intact.

He added that Jeff Beard, retiring athletic director at Auburn University, had agreed to serve for one year as special consultant to the commissioner.

The new commissioner was chosen a week ago at a conference meeting in Atlanta, but his identity was kept secret until McWhorter resigned at Georgia a few hours before the appointment was announced.

He said that was done at his request because "it is never easy to tell those who must be told."

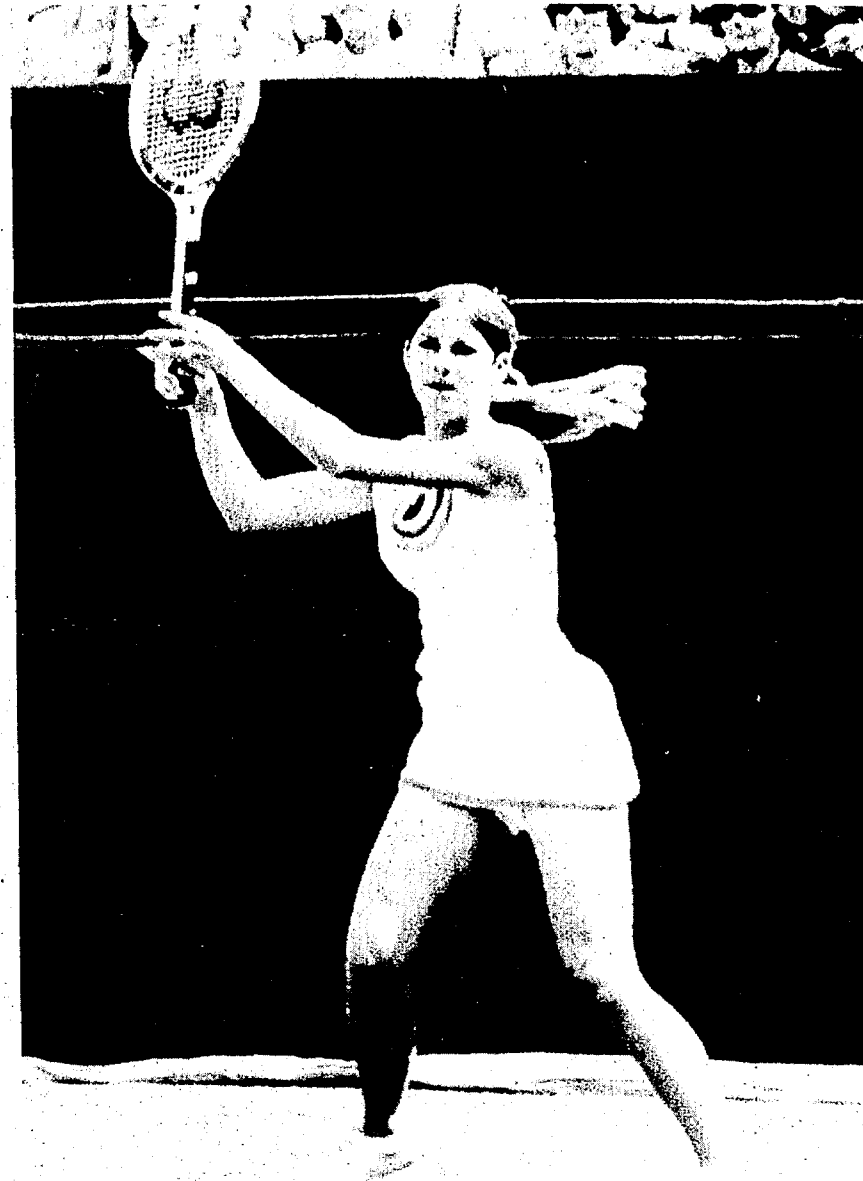

In announcing the appointment of McWhorter, SEC President Dr. Harry M. Philpott of Auburn said McWhorter's name was the one "most frequently listed by presidents, athletic directors and coaches" when the search for a new head man began.

"His outstanding background in academic affairs and his major involvement with intercollegiate athletic programs have fitted him ideally for the commissioner's post," Philpott said.

McWhorter attended North Georgia College and he was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy. He is a captain in the Naval Reserve. McWhorter received his masters degree in English at Georgia in 1949 and completed his doctorate at Texas in 1960.

The fourth man to hold the SEC commissioner post, McWhorter followed two former coaches into the job. Coleman was assistant athletic director at Georgia Tech when he took the job in 1966, succeeding Bernie Moore, the former LSU head coach.

Moore assumed the post in 1948, replacing the original commissioner, former Mississippi Gov. Martin S. Connor.

Gonzalez' arguments end in London disqualification

LONDON (UPI)—Pancho Gonzalez, 44-years-old and still fiery, was disqualified Friday in the semi-finals of the London Grass Courts Championships at Queens Club after arguments with a linesman, the umpire and referee.

The row blew up in the sixth game of the second set with Pancho leading 7-5, 2-3 but love-40 down on service against Briton John Paish who meets Jim Connors of Belleville, Ill., in today's final.

Connors beat New Yorker Clark Graebner 6-3, 6-4 in his semi-final of this major pre-Wimbledon tournament.

In the women's singles final 17-year-old wonder girl Chris Evert meets Australian Karen Krantzke after beating Wendy Overton of Washington, D.C. 5-7, 6-2, 6-1. Miss Krantzke downed fellow Aussie Pat Coleman 6-3, 6-3.

Gonzalez was a very angry man when the first three calls in the sixth game went against him and when his serve was called a fault at love-40, he shouted "That's a damn lie. I want the linesman removed."

After Gonzalez had argued in vain with umpire Frank Aris to have linesman Archie Tyler replaced, referee Mrs. Bea Seal was called to sort out the trouble.

"The American gave her an ultimatum 'either the linesman goes or I do' and Mrs. Seal decided on the latter."

"I scratched him. I disqualified him, it's the same thing," she said.

Gonzalez complained later "I had four balls called out when the chalk flew and I have been in tennis too many years to let that kind of thing continue."

"I thought everything was settled but she (Mrs. Seal) started coming up. When I told her I didn't want her approaching me, that's what she didn't like. But she came nearer and nearer and I held her off. It was then that she signalled that the match was all over," Gonzalez said.

Connors, 19, had to hold off a rally by the second-seeded Graebner before winning.

Graebner threatened to extend the issue beyond two sets when he hit two fine forehand service returns followed by a forehand down the line to get within a point of 5-5.

But two successive net cords for outright winners from the left-handed Connors took the last bit of sting from Graebner who ended the match by netting a backhand.

Her opening set loss was the first dropped by Miss Evert in Britain and came after she had threatened another quick and easy win.

With the teenage blonde sensation leading 5-2 and with two set points in the following game, Miss Overton began to play tremendous tennis. Wendy took five games in a row and after winning the opening set carried her superiority briefly into the second.

The match produced a surprise ending when the Romanian indicated his retirement with Gimeno at match point, leading 9-8, 5-2.

Gimeno returned a backhand from Nastase at full-stretch and the ball flew back over the net off the wood of his racket.

Nastase shrugged his shoulders, walked to the net and shook hands with his rival, indicating to the umpire that he was retiring, and the players left court together chatting in Spanish.

The 34-year-old Gimeno meets 30-year-old Frenchman Pierre Barthes, who beat South African Andre Pottinger 6-4, 6-4 in the other semi-final, for the title Saturday.

"I am an old fox and I know how to handle this type of player," Gimeno said later.

Both men had early service breaks in the first set and good natured banter flowed across the net as swiftly as their shots.

Gimeno won the first two games in the second set and then took three in a row to go 5-1 up. He had three match points before Nastase surprised everyone by calling a halt.

In the women's singles final top-seeded Francoise Durr of France meets Australian Judy Dalton. Miss Durr downed Lesley Hunt of Australia 6-1, 6-2 and Mrs. Dalton beat Miss M. Schallau of the United States.

Clemente ignites Pittsburgh

CHICAGO (UPI)—Roberto Clemente's two-run triple keyed a three-run fourth inning rally Friday as the Pittsburgh Pirates went on to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Clemente's line-drive, which was misjudged by Cubs' centerfielder Rick Monday, came after a single by Dave Cash and a double by Vic Davalillo. The Pirates got their third run of the inning when Al Oliver singled home Clemente.

Steve Blass, who went 8 1-3 innings before getting relief help from Dave Giusti, picked up his ninth win of the season in 10 decisions. Giusti, who got Ron Santo on a game-ending double play, picked up his eighth save.

The Pirates got their other run in the eighth when Willie Stargell walked, moved up on a wild pitch and scored on Manny Sanguillen's single.

The Cubs runs came in the sixth and seventh. In the sixth, Glen Beckert reached base on a force play, moved to third on a single by Billy Williams, and scored on Jim Hickman's single.

Singles by Monday, Santo and an infield ground out produced the final Chicago run in the seventh. Ferguson Jenkins (8-6) was the loser for Chicago.

Jack O'Brian's

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Vincent Sardi of the justly famous Sardi's theatrical hangout, dubbed decades ago a Den of Equity as it gathered into its midnight meals more famous mummies than the Lambs, Friars and Players footlight-culture clubs combined, insists the old menace of Broadway and Manhattan generally is getting in hand. The 600-some special cops assigned to theatrical midtown are doing their work — chasing muggers, proscribing prostitutes, discouraging common, driving drunks to dryer areas, such as jail; as generally the most important hub for a New York visitor again is safely safe to attend.

"G'wan write a column about the good things in New York," Vincent, now decorated facially with a sort of hirsute sculpture of phizz and noggin that makes him a stand-in for Franz Joseph, firmly if politely requested; and we replied, why not? We love this town; we've been covering the fascinating trivialities, never the UN, always the famed entertainments, for 29 years. It satisfies and delights us, this Toy Department of Journalism, so in Vincent's honor, let's have at our own personal, often subjective, always admiring tastes.

For sheer luxury and a lavish club-like surroundings, "21," run as a "family" restaurant but on a sky-high level of sophistication and gourmet food, wines and service; you'll see every celebrity imaginable in "21" from Pres. Nixon (who sat two tables from us) to any star you admire, plus stunningly banal starlets with producers, debts with scions, centimillionaires (such as Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Ford's Henry, Coca Cola's Robert Woolfruff, banking's Charles Allen, film's Zanuck, TV's Jack Benny, George Burns, Jimmy Stewart etc.; just a few we've encountered there recently. The really important names at "21" are its pres., Bob Kriendler, Pete Kriendler, Jerry Berns and Sheldon Tannen, all brothers, cousins and owners; and manager Bruce Snyder, a Marine lieutenant whose polished polite facade belies his toughness; but they are the keys to "21."

At Cote Basque it's Henriette Palter, whose standards are the most exquisite in town, gustatorially and sartorially: it's one of the last bastions of anti-pants-for-ladies, but to skirt the problem is worth it for any lady gourmet (gourmette?) anxious for the very best.

Charles Mason is the man to know at La Grenouilles, one of the great French restaurants in a city full of Gallic and garlicky Parisian pretensions. More modestly, including the prices, Les Pyrenees at 251 W. 51st St. (a recent discovery here) has good food and charming decor and atmosphere and a handsome young lad, the owner, Jean-Claude Pujol, who is on hand at all times.

Our favorite N.Y. neighborhood restaurant is Louise's at 225 E. 58th St., where Louise is the marvelous matron d'hotel, a bustling, solicitous, food-brilliant lady. P. J. Clarke's is our main late-spot, the best hamburgers in town, good steak sandwiches, try the barley soup (you'll like it), crisp salads; good beers, booze and wines; and not expensive. Not even the bubbly.

The Stage Delicatessen is unique: even Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier have it in unarguable common. The sandwiches are great, the "hamisha" means what a food-hip Jewish mother ordered, the chopped chicken liver a dream, and it's a noisy room, but then where could you ever get chopped chicken liver without noise?

Ann Landers

Loss for words

Dear Ann Landers: I can't talk to people. I don't know what to say. I can't start a conversation or keep one going. When I'm in a group I sit and listen. By the time I think of something to say, it's too late.

My husband is a wonderful talker. He has been to so many places and done so many things, people like to listen to him. But I haven't been anywhere and I never do anything interesting.

Even in a family group I'm a dummy. I just sit there. It is so embarrassing when someone notices. For example, last night my brother-in-law piped up, "And now let's hear from the silent member" — meaning me, of course. Everyone laughed and I wanted to die.

This problem is ruining my life. Please help.

Super Quiet

Dear Super: Where did you get the idea that people expect earth-shaking pronouncements or pearls of wisdom every time you open your mouth? Why are you afraid to say something that is less than brilliant? Does everyone who speaks up in your presence display oracular wisdom? If you read this newspaper thoroughly, you should have a fairly good idea of what's going on in the world — and if you don't maybe THIS is a good place to start. Speak up when you have something to say and don't feel self-conscious if you remain silent. The world needs more listeners and fewer talkers.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently someone asked you to please publish something that might discourage drunken driving. Maybe this is it:

Don "Big Daddy" Garlits is one of the top drag drivers in the world. He has driven cars over 200 MPH on the quarter mile from a standing start. Big Daddy travels over 50,000 miles in a single season. He's a real pro.

He didn't think a few drinks could hurt him, so he volunteered to put on an exhibition to prove it. He drank 12 ounces of 86 proof whiskey. His blood registered .09, which is not even legally drunk in Florida. The obstacle course was set up for him, with rubber pylons. He ran the course five times. On the first four tries he knocked down half the pylons. On the fifth try he knocked them ALL down.

Getting to the statistics: His average while sober was .09 per cent. His average after the booze was .43 per cent. He decided then and there that he would never again drive a car if he had had more than one drink. It's shocking that only 6 per cent of the people drive while drunk, but they cause 66 per cent of all fatal accidents.

Clocking In The Pits

Dear Clock: Thanks for the short course.

Think again

By Jean Adams

PERSISTENT: (Q.) Ever since I started dating this boy he has tried stuff on me. I won't let him touch me but he keeps on trying.

He says he loves me and I guess he does. But sometimes I think it's going to be a mistake marrying him because things pop into my mind, like maybe he's just waiting to go to bed with me. But why would someone step into a big situation just for something like that?

If he needs it that bad he can get it some place else. He doesn't have to keep trying on me.

We have been going together two months. I am 15 and he is 20 and we are supposed to get married some time next year. I love him.

Virginia in Indiana

(A.) Two months is a pretty short time to try. Many boys try longer.

Two months is a very short time in which to decide on marriage, which you seem to have done.

There are too many long years between 15 and 20 to make a good dating arrangement. Sixteen, which you will be a year from now, is too young to get married.

Think about these figures. You may love your boy friend now and he may love you now, but a lifetime is usually much longer than two months.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

There is a right way of doing things, and there is a wrong way. Sometimes the wrong way works out just as well as the right way, but that doesn't prove the wrong way is right. In bridge, you're better served by hewing religiously to the right way.

Assume you're in four spades and West leads a diamond. Examining dummy with your customary vigilance, you realize that two hearts and a club must be lost in any case, so your fortunes therefore depend on not losing a trump trick.

Generally, with four to the queen missing, you do best by cashing the A-K, rather than taking a finesse. But the mathematical advantage is very, very slight, and in the present case you should be unwilling to stake the entire outcome on such a narrow advantage.

Oddly enough, the best chance of avoiding a trump loser here lies in not tackling the suit at all. Instead of trying to guess whether to play for the crop of the queen, or whether to finesse against the damsel, you should merely go about the business of ruffing as many cards as possible in your own hand.

Win the diamond with the ace, ruff a diamond, play a club to the ace, ruff another diamond, then play a club to the king and ruff dummy's last diamond.

Next cash the ace of hearts and exit with a heart. After East-West cash their two hearts and a club, your last three cards will be the K-J-10 of trumps and dummy will have the A-8-5. Regardless of which defender winds up on lead, or what he returns, you are sure to make the last three tricks without bothering to finesse. Guessing the location of the queen simply does not enter the picture.

M.P. school age lowered

STROUDSBURG — Interest- ed men may now apply for the Military Police Academy at age 18, according to SFC. William E. Purcell, the local Army recruiter.

Previously, the minimum age was 19.

Men who desire to train in police work can enlist for three years provided they are at least 5 ft. 9 in. in height, have no record of civil convictions, and pass the physical and mental examinations.

Additional information can be gained by calling SFC. Purcell at 421-4911 or visiting him at the Stroudsburg Post Office on Tuesdays or Thursdays.

Your Horoscope
By FRANCIS DRAKE

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)
Mars, highly auspicious, places you in line for success in substantial enterprises. A certain amount of daring favored now.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)
IKF YOU DO not notice "small" errors and where you miss chances for "little" gains, you will probably not see the big ones. Be alert.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)
Do not go overboard in your enthusiasms now. Look well before you invest time, talents, money. But neither be so fearful that you miss advantages and pass over good buys.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)
Seek to know all you can about those with whom you deal, their feelings on all subjects, and express yourself precisely but considerably. Be wide-awake to real opportunities.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)
Plan your schedule early and only deviate where a better arrangement is presented or discovered. Apply brakes sensibly in pleasures, risky activities.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)
Work constructively, but insert a novel twist into routine to relieve monotony and make it more pleasing. You may renew an old friendship.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)
Fine stellar influences! Romance and artistic pursuits favored. Reexamine your long-range projects and put them on a business-like basis.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)
Pay no attention to those who express jaundiced viewpoints or those who obviously nurse unwarranted grudges. Counteract ill-will with your innate good humor and sense of logic.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)
Planetary influences favor those who are soundly progressive. A good period for real advancement. Forget past slights; your mind should be on present aspirations and objectives.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)
An excellent opportunity here to show your adaptability and ability to think and act quickly at a given time. Just one admonition: Don't try to mediate a lovers' quarrel.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)
Mild influences indicate a mediocre day unless you do something about it. Do not go off on tangents but neither let splendid chances slip through your fingers.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)
Do not stay enclosed in a shell; its walls will thicken around you. You mind and spirit should be geared to happy prospects. Seek new horizons.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly gifted and intelligent individual, ambitious and conscientious, but not quite as practical as the majority of your fellow Cancerians. You could do well as a manager of large enterprises if you are not too dictatorial with those under your supervision and if you leave organization and details to others. You are energetic and vigorous and have a natural gift for leadership; would make an outstanding politician, statesman or commander in the armed forces. You are conservative in your thinking, conventional in behavior; must learn, however, to curb tendencies toward overpossessiveness toward loved ones and jealousy.

Although we do limit our rentals to couples only, you will find we offer many unprecedented advantages. Pets and animals of all types are allowed for, you see, this massive complex has been designed and constructed by a Master Planner and will be, in fact, like a self-contained little community completely capable of surviving without help from the outside world.

It is presently located high atop a mountain in a wooded area; on-site inspection can be arranged.

This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, so if this is the type of thing you've been looking for to insure your future comfort and security, don't delay. Act now. Write: Noah, care of ABC Enterprises, 1000 Main St., Stroudsburg, Pa.

Keep boat in condition

No one likes to be stranded. Keep your boat in good condition and it will remain serviceable when you need it most. Good housekeeping is a must.

THE LOCKHORNS

See laurel blossoms

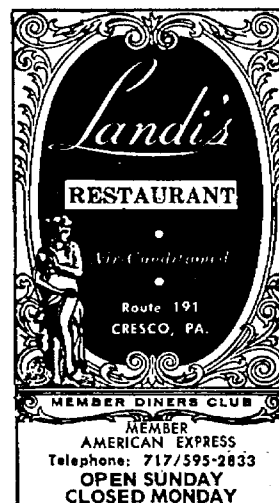

The Laurel Blossom, Pennsylvania's State Flower, grows in abundance in the Poconos. Visitors from all parts of the state and of the country come to view the beautiful spectacle of laurel in bloom.

Make plans now to include a visit to the fields of laurel blossoms in your next visit to the Poconos.

For more information on Pocono attractions, write the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, 1004 Main Street West, Stroudsburg, Pa. 18360.

Static preventer

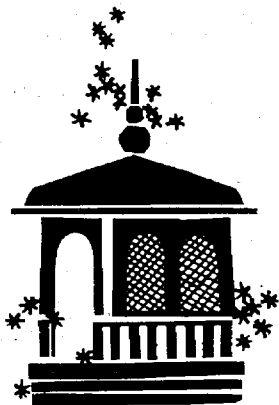

When fueling your boat, have the nozzle touching the rim of the tank at all times. This may prevent a static spark that may cause one of the worst fires of all — a gas fire. Also, when filling portable tanks, do so a safe distance from the boat whenever possible.

Yellow Shed smallest gift shop in Poconos?

MARSHALLS CREEK — Where Rt. 209 and Rt. 402 meet, by the bridge over Marshall's Creek, is what may be the smallest gift shop in the Poconos.

Called the Yellow Shed, it occupies the waiting room of what used to be a railroad station on the line connecting Bushkill to East Stroudsburg until just before the Second World War, when the service was discontinued.

It is operated by Larry Sapir and David Vosburgh. Larry was a wholesaler and a portrait photographer in New York before he decided to quit the big city and come to the Poconos.

David is a tenor who has been in opera for four years and played in "Maggie Flynn" and "1776". While back stage he does crewel work (wool embroidery on linen) to pass the time.

He designs his own pictures and all of his work is original.

He used to give them to his friends, but now that he is making more than he has use for he is using the shop as an outlet for them.

The shop is also being used as an outlet for other crafts by local and New York craftsmen. "We are trying to display as much local work as possible so it's like a community project."

"We will concentrate on one-of-a-kind items," Dave said. "This way we will not have to stockpile goods because when we sell one item we will order another one made."

"Local people don't have an outlet for their hand made goods," Larry said. "Also, by dealing in hand made goods we don't have to have the volume we would have with mass produced goods."

The hand-made goods include potholders, belts, hostess aprons, wooden items, "weird type candles" (according to Larry), ceramics made in East Stroudsburg, and pin cushions, bean bags and hanging pieces made of crewel.

This is a weekend line of work for the men, both of whom hold other jobs during the week. The store is open Saturday and Sunday all year round from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The store held its grand opening on June 10.

If the store goes well enough it may be open Monday and Friday nights during the week in July and August. It may even turn into a fulltime job, Larry said, but it is too early to tell yet.

You can 'find' your head on this vacation

Old farmhouse headquarters of Sivananda Yoga Camp.

By BILL ZELLERS

Pocono Record Reporter
FEEDERS — A vacation can be a good time to get your head together and find out just who you are.

That is the purpose of the Sivananda Yoga Camp. The camp has been running since April 1970 in an old farm house which is referred to as an Ashram meaning a religious retreat where a group of disciples come together to learn from a teacher.

Swami Lakshmy Devi founded the camp and she and seven other swamis teach the disciples. They conduct three four-week sessions during the summer and people come to the Ashram for weekends or a couple of days if they cannot stay for the full program. Fifteen guests are presently at the camp.

A day at the camp runs from 5 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and includes a schedule of meditation, yoga exercises, work around the Ashram and meals. All of the people at the camp are on vegetarian diets.

Five kinds of Yoga are practiced during the day. They are Hatha Yoga (Yoga of the body), Karma Yoga (Yoga of action), Raja Yoga (Yoga of the mind), Jnana Yoga (Yoga of the intellect) and Bhakti Yoga (Yoga of the emotions). All of them have as their goal a happy state of mind which is found in meditation and kept throughout the day according to Swami Uccsrava.

Yoga exercises accustom the body to certain postures of immobility and teach relaxation by control of the muscles and breathing, Swami Uccsrava explains.

"Eyes are kept closed during the exercises so the disciples will not be competing with one another and so they can concentrate on what is going on inside their own bodies. This puts the mind in a calm meditative state in which it feels like you are floating on water."

After the exercises there is a period of meditation during which the whole group sits in a circle around a candle. By concentrating on the flame they are supposed to get away from their own thoughts and let their minds become calm, Uccsrava says.

Everyone then chants "OM" which is a mantra (something used as a focusing device to eliminate distractions). By chanting this together the members feel peace and union with each other, he adds.

After someone has been practicing Yoga for a while he receives a spiritual name from his teacher. The name is to remind him of a certain quality he has and to point him in some direction, according to Jnana, whose name means intellect.

"I still keep my given name for legal purposes, but I would rather be called by my spiritual one," Jnana says,

"because there are millions of Jims."

If a person wants to progress further in Yoga he may become a swami, which is one who has achieved an inner light.

BUSHKILL — Many items out of America's past, ranging from a four-foot bear trap to a wheelchair dating back to Atlantic City's Boardwalk during the 1930s, can be found at the Pike County Country Store and neighboring Sonny's Antiques and Junk, located on Bushkill Falls Road, just off Route 209 N.

Sonny Albrecht owns and operates the combination antique store and garage, while the running of the country store is left to his wife, Jane.

Look down on Poconos? Sure — by plane

STROUDSBURG — Few people can look down on the Poconos unless they are taking an air tour offered by one of the three local airports.

These air tours allow visitors a bird's eye view of the woods and lakes and natural wonders that make the Poconos a haven for tourists.

The Stroudsburg-Pocono Airport, four miles east of Stroudsburg on Business Route 209, offers visitors an air tour covering Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Cherry Valley, Delaware Water Gap, Shawnee, Vacation Valley and Marshalls Creek.

The tours last 12 to 15 minutes and cost $4.50 per person. They are given from 9 a.m. to dusk seven days a week, depending on the weather. Please turn to page 11

Even buildings have old flair fence between the two places," is the way Mrs. Albrecht describes the division.

The Pike County Country Store opened in 1970 after the Albrechts purchased two old barns, one in Bartonsville and the other in Lake Wallenpaupack. The barns were dismantled and rebuilt at the present site near Bushkill Falls, with the majority of the lumber coming from an 1840 vintage barn.

The result left a barn almost completely authentic 19th century, with only the floor and ceiling built of new wood.

"There aren't even any nails," Mrs. Albrecht commented. Wooden pegs built by an "old-timer" from the West End are used to hold the wood together.

Throughout the store displays of gifts and souvenirs are arranged in an old-fashioned manner. For example, a large horse trough contains aromatic soaps. Buckboards and wagons are also used for displays.

Even the front porch of the store retains the old country image. Wicker rockers line the porch for the comfort of those visitors who just wish to relax.

Another feature that interests many of the older visitors is the chestnut burrs that adorn the rafters.

"There used to be a large number of chestnut trees in the area," said Mrs. Albrecht, "but a blight destroyed them over 50 years ago and they're just starting to come back."

Sonny started collecting antiques as a sideline to his service station about four or five years ago. He admits that he collects antiques for "fun rather than profit" and that it livens things up for him because the "garage is drudgery."

Sonny proved that the profit motive of the business is only secondary to him when he recently donated a large quantity of player piano rolls to St. Alban's Naval Hospital in St. Albans, N.Y.

"They had a piano, but no music rolls," explained Sonny, "so I shipped the music rolls to them."

His wife was quick to add that the biggest thrill comes when the couple pick up an item at an auction and later sell it. The thrill is not in the money, but in the fact that it "shows that others have an interest in the item."

Among the treasured items of Sonny's is a 1900 Sonora phonograph in nearly mint condition. Along with it are a collection of "new" recordings, such as Frank Williams singing "Barney Google."

Other unusual items include an organ made of cherry wood, containing the original bill of sale from 1898 and one of the original bells from a Delaware Lackawanna & Western locomotive that made the run from East Stroudsburg to Bushkill during the 1920s.

Sonny also looks back with pride at the Boardwalk-style wheelchair that was so common around the turn of the century that "every hotel in Atlantic City used to have their own."

Although most of the items that Sonny picks up at auctions have to be repaired, he really doesn't mind the work and only hopes that the refurbished items will "make people more conscious that older things have value."

'Artizar' aptly describes new art gallery

BY JOE DeVIVO
Pocono Record Reporter

MARSHALLS CREEK — Artizar is a Spanish word meaning "something ingeniously done."

It is an appropriate word to describe the artistic items at the recently opened Artizar Gallery of Art, located on Route 402, at the corner near the Marshalls Creek fire house.

Various local artists bring in their work to Mrs. Gayle Waring, operator of the gallery, which she sells on consignment. In this way, the Artizar Gallery of Art is able to offer "reasonable prices because the artists are local rather than big name," says

Mrs. Waring.

Among the pieces is a collection of ceramic work done by John Garafallo of Stroudsburg. Ceramic work has been a tradition in Garafallo's family since 1600, when his ancestors practiced the art in Sicily.

Featured in the shop, by Garafallo, are several statuettes of the Cervantes' character, Don Quixote, in the various stages of completion, ranging from unpainted to glazed.

Items of particular interest to the ladies include hand-made purses by Barbara Gordon of Shawnee and macrame belts done by Bernice Levin, also of Shawnee.

Pottery by Nancy McClelland of Stroudsburg, paintings by Bob Strunk of Marshalls Creek, and photography taken by Duane Walck, head of the art show in Delaware Water Gap, are also in the gallery.

Another feature is the variety of laminated place mats of french masterpieces taken from color prints in the National Gallery, Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Waring doesn't limit herself to just running the gallery, however, as the inquiring visitor is likely to find her at work either in her organic garden, painting, or doing some gourmet cooking.

Originally from Detroit, Mich., she has a B.A. degree in the history of art. Mrs. Waring decided to create her own outlet for enjoyment by opening the shop.

The furniture was moved out of one of the rooms in the front of her house and converted into the art gallery. The Waring's home is one of the oldest in Marshalls Creek, dating to about 1810, and is believed to have originally been a trapper's cottage.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday p.m. on weekends, and in the through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 evenings by appointment.

weather conditions.

"If the people can see we take them up," Irving Siewerd, a pilot at the airport, says. "If the weather is too bad we don't waste their money."

The two aircraft available for the tours, a three-passenger and a five-passenger Cessna, cruise over the Poconos at 2,000 feet above sea level.

The airport, operated by Eugene Benben, also offers charter service to any point at any time and flight instruction for those who need it.

The Birchwood-Pocono Airport offers glider rides as well as the traditional air tours.

The airpark has one glider capable of holding one or two passengers depending on their weight. The glider flights are 15 minutes long and the distance covered depends on the wind conditions in the Stroudsburg area. The flights are $10 for a single person and $17.50 for two people.

The airpark is in the process of obtaining two more gliders and will eventually set up a summer glider school.

The air tours offered at the airpark cover the Delaware Water Gap, Sunfish Pond and Big Pocono in a 15-minute ride at $4 per person. Two planes are used for the tour, a Cessna 207 which holds six passengers and a Cessna 172 which holds four passengers.

The airpark, owned by Walter Hoffman, a pilot for Pan American Airways, has a paved and lighted airstrip and a hangar where space can be rented for private planes. The airpark, which also offers charter service and flying lessons, is located between Tannersville and Anolomink on Cherry Lane.

The Pocono Mountains Municipal Airport, schedules special days for guests at some of the resorts. On these days guests at the resort can take the air tours and take pictures of the resort at which they are staying.

'Merry Widow' holds record for revivals

MOUNTAINHOME — Since 1905, when Franz Lehár first set the world to humming his "Merry Widow" tunes, there has never been a season when the "Widow" has not been played in major revivals in many parts of the globe. That is a record.

And 1972 sees the record being maintained with an important new revival coming to the Poconos for two weeks, starting Monday, when Rowena Stevens opens her 26th season at Pocono Playhouse with her touring production of this international musical favorite.

Following this, the Stevens' company will play major summer theatres in the U.S. for two months, helping to swell the grand total of "Merry Widow" performances, worldwide, since its epoch-making Viennese premiere, to well beyond the 50,000 mark.

Backed by a large company directed by David Davis, Nolan Van Way will be seen in the role of the carefree Prince Danilo, footloose but with a mission, in the halcyon year of 1900 in Paris. Catherine Christensen will be starred as Sonia, the wealthy, charming and beautiful widow the prince has been ordered to marry to save his country, Marsovia, from bankruptcy.

Miss Christensen, a young "diva" of the Metropolitan Opera Studio, performed over 40 major operatic roles throughout the United States and abroad before making her musical comedy debut last summer, opposite Howard Keel, as Rosabella in Frank Loesser's "The Most Happy Fella".

This success was followed by another for her, this time with the Casa Manana in Fort Worth, where she starred as Guinivere in Lerner and Loewe's "Camelot".

Similarly, Nolan Van Way has sung to critical acclaim in operatic roles in over 60 cities in Europe and the U.S. A star of many musicals in the country's leading theatres, he has recently returned from the national tour of the Broadway hit, "Company". Van Way, a six-foot-three former Golden Glover, was featured in the Playhouse's production of "Show Boat" in 1968.

Famous not only for its waltz tunes, its romantic "Villa", for "Girls, Girls, Girls", "I'm Going to Maxim's", and its comic "Women" song, "The Merry Widow" is also celebrated for the zestful Can-Can dances of Lo Lo, Clo Clo, Margot and the other girls at Maxim's, the famous Parisian restaurant that is still operating successfully in the glittering Rue Royale, a favorite of tourists as well as the native French. Ken Lewis, the designer, will recreate Maxim's for Playhouse audiences, and William Bradley, the choreographer, will stage the dances, the highpoint of proceedings there.

Tickets for "The Merry Widow" and the other eight shows of the season are available now at the Playhouse box office (tel: 717-595-7456) and at its agencies in Scranton at the Jermyn Motor Inn (tel: 346-1666) and in Honesdale at Scureman's Pharmacy (tel: 253-1390). Playgoers in Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton and Phillipsburg may reserve tickets by making a toll-free call to ENTERprise 1-4899.

Playhouse opens with nostalgia

MOUNTAINHOME — The gala opening of the Poconos Playhouse, set for June 26 with Lehár's "The Merry Widow," starring Catherine Christensen and Nolan Van Way, will, according to producer-manager Rowena Stevens, be a "celebration of that distant-seeming past that everyone likes to dream about."

"It will be a celebration of the nostalgic world of turn-of-the-century Paris, in a time untroubled by the thoughts of world wars, where elaborately-gowned women were whirled through intoxicating waltzes by their elegant suitors, unharried by worries about global crises."

Lehár had brilliant success with "The Merry Widow," success reflected in a host of "Widow" fads, including a hat composed of a huge cartwheel more than three feet in diameter, causing the wearer a bit of embarrassment when she tried to get through a doorway without tilting her head. The hat led the state of Illinois to pass law banning hats of more than one and one-half feet in diameter.

Tourism bellweather Pocono industry

By BILL ZELLERS

Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — As goes tourism so goes other business in the Poconos.

Tourism is the largest single employer and the largest single revenue generator in the Poconos, according to Robert Uguccioni, director of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau. This means that a decrease in tourism will have a "tremendous affect" on other businesses in the area; which also will feel the decrease.

The Poconos contain 80 per cent of the tourist facilities in Pennsylvania, and are responsible for at least $1 billion of the $4.2 billion tourist industry impact on the state.

The four-county area of the Poconos brought in $150 million in tourist revenue last year, but this money has a greater effect because it circulates in the community, changing hands at least seven times, he noted.

Breaking down the total shows that $98 million was spent for accommodations, $15.5 million for attractions, $12.5 million for restaurants, $3 million for camping, $9 million for children's camps and $12 million for skiing.

Skiing has opened up the winter season and made tourism a full time industry for the Poconos. Without it the area would have been held back, Uguccioni explained, but now it is profitable for resorts to stay open all year long.

Among the accommodations, those for families and other vacationers got $51 million, those for the honeymoon business reaped $31 million and those for conventions received $16 million. Spring and fall are the best seasons for honeymooners and conventioners, but summer is best for vacationers, Uguccioni noted.

Eight million people visited the Pocono area in 1971. In one night, 85,000 people can be accommodated in facilities ranging from resorts (with over 15,000 rentable rooms available) to campsites.

"Where these people travel and what they buy also effects business in the Poconos," Uguccioni says. "Many highways have been improved and others have been created because of the influx of people. Also we don't have the local population to justify the facilities we have around here, but we benefit from them."

The vacation bureau has estimated how the average tourist spends his dollar. Food takes 27 cents, lodging 17 cents, attractions 16 cents, retail purchases 16 cents, auto expenses 19 cents.

There is no definite percentage to show how many of the items sold in area stores are purchased by tourists, according to Bob Steinmetz, president of the Retail Businessmen's Association, but he would hate to see them stop coming.

"Cloudy days are better for retail business, since the tourists decide to go into town then instead of staying at the resorts," he says.

"I don't think there would be near the number of gift and novelty shops around if we didn't have tourism, because they probably couldn't exist without it."

Money spent by tourists means jobs for local people. Twenty-five per cent of the work force of the Wayne, Pike and Monroe County area is employed in jobs related to the vacation industry.

Drive through Poconos shows area's beauty

STROUDSBURG — To see the beautiful countryside that made this region famous as a resort area it is only necessary to take a drive through the Poconos.

You will see the mountain laurel blossoming in spring, the wildflowers and flowering trees in the summer, the multicolored flaming foliage each fall and the stark brown and black of tree trunks on a white background.

Some interesting sight-seeking routes to take are:

—Route 611 through Delaware Water Gap and on to Easton (some nice farmland can be seen along this road).

—Route 390 from Mountainhome past Skytop and Promised Land (beautiful forested areas).

—Route 402 from Marshalls Creek past Porters Lake and Peck's Pond to Route 6 near Hawley (a good route for seeing mountain laurel).

—Route 507 along Lake Wallenpaupack (a good view of the lake).

—Route 209 along the Delaware from Marshalls Creek to Port Jervis (a good view of the river).

—Route 191 from Newfoundland to junction with 940 at Paradise.

—Route 903 from Fern Ridge to Jim Thorpe.

Summer skating time at Pocono Ice-a-Rama

ANALOMINK — An ice skating camp? In the summer? In the Poconos?

Sure — at Pocono Ice-a-Rama in Analomink.

The camp, conducted by Mrs. Ann Magagna, has been running since June 12 and will continue until August 27. The age of the participants ranges from 7 to 19 years of age with the majority being between 10 and 14 years old.

The students will be skating six or seven days a week for four hours a day. They will receive individual instruction on basic edges, dance steps and advanced free skating. They will be tested on their skills at the end of July.

"It is a good way to get a lot of instruction in a short time," Mrs. Magagna says.

For the next four weeks there is room for more students in the program. The maximum number of students allowed in the program at any one time is 10. There will be no more than six people on the ice at any one time.

Mrs. Magagna has rented a house in which her two children, a counselor and six other children may stay. Two meals will be served at the house (breakfast and dinner) and students will obtain lunch at the cafeteria connected to Penn Hills Lodge.

Students will also be allowed to use the athletic facilities connected to the rink during skating hours. It contains an indoor tennis court, badminton and volleyball court, ping pong table, shuffleboard court and other facilities.

Golf, tennis, bowling, swimming and horseback riding will also be offered in the program with additional fees for the golf, bowling and riding.

There may be three exhibitions during the summer. The first one may be scheduled for the Fourth of July. There will be no admission charged because it would threaten the children's amateur status.

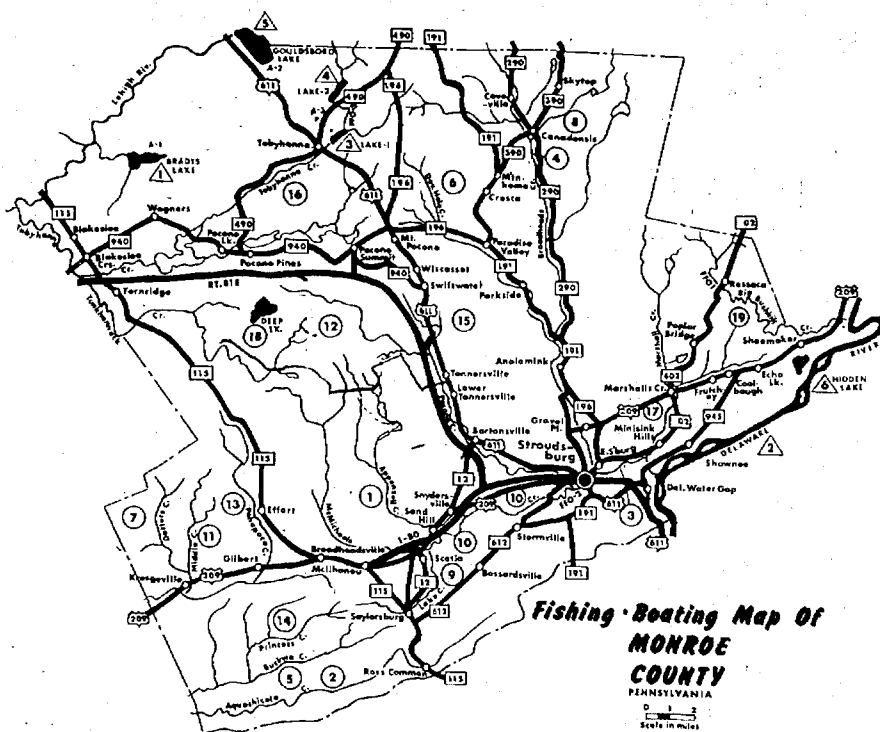

Anyone interested in the program should call Ice-a-Rama and ask for Mrs. Magagna.

Susan Magagna and Fay Ann Benzinger do twin spirals on Ice-a-Rama skating rink. These and other skating techniques are featured at summer skating school.

Molly and Mary Lynch perform figure called 'shoot the duck' while Ice-a-Rama instructor Ann Magagna gives hints.

Pocono fishing spots

STROUDSBURG — Some 46,000 trout have been stocked in Monroe County streams — with another 25,000 slated for in-season stocking.

A grand total of 5,150 pounds of trout are waiting in the Big Bushkill, with an average size of 10 inches. That stream, the Brodhead, Pocono and Tobyhanna, will see the most fishermen, says Burkhart.

Here's a list of nearby streams stocked by the fish commission:

Monroe County

AQUASHICOLA CREEK: Open for 10 miles from Saylorburg to Little Gap. Rt. 904 and Kunkletown or Rt. 115 to Little Gap, then southwest. Also accessible from Ross Common and Aquashicola.

BIG BUSHKILL CREEK: Open for 9 miles, also for 3 miles at Griffin or former Snodgrass property, from mouth of Delaware River in village of Bushkill upstream to Monroe-Pike County line. Upper 6 miles at Resica Falls fly-fishing only. Creel limit is 6, minimum size 9 at Resica area. Fishing from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m. Anglers must register to fish in Resica fly section. Apply at Boy Scout camp office for season card. Rt. 209, Stroudsburg to Bushkill. Rt. 402 crosses at Resica.

BUCKWA CREEK: Open for 7 miles Saylorburg to Little Gap. Rt. 209 and Kresgeville or Rt. 100 and Jonas.

BRODHEAD CREEK: Open for 9 miles from mouth at Delaware to Analamink. DEEP LAKE: About 10 acres. No ball fish—dead or alive—allowed in lake. Rt. 60 or 611 to Tannersville, then road to Big Pocono State Park of Camelback.

DEVIL'S HOLE CREEK: Open for 1½ miles including B.K. Williams property on State Game Lands No. 221. Joins Paradise at Paradise Valley.

DOTTER CREEK: Open ½ mile from Kresgeville to Jonas. Rt. 209 and Kresgeville or Rt. 100 and Jonas.

GOOSE POND RUN: Open for one mile from mouth of Brodhead (Middle Branch) at Canadensis to Canadie Shop at Rt. 390. Rt. 390 to Canadensis.

DWGNRA hunter's paradise

MILLBROOK — Hunters may be pleased to know that there is a public hunting ground within the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

The Millbrook Registered Hunting Area is a cooperative effort of the National Park Service and the New Jersey Division of Fish, Game and Shellfish.

There are three hunting areas open to the public: one of 2,000 acres, one of 1,712 acres and one of 1,370 acres.

A fourth hunting ground will be open during the firearm season for deer and one area which includes the Watergate Environmental Study area, will be set aside as a state game refuge.

Hunters must register at Millbrook each day before they hunt and must be licensed by the state of New Jersey.

The registration is limited to 253 hunters a day with 68 assigned to the first area 85 to the second and 100 to the third.

Each hunter is issued a hunting area badge to wear on his coat and a parking permit to put on the dashboard of his car.

They are required to check in at the end of the hunting day to return their identification badges and report their kill.

Game biologists will collect data on animals killed to determine general condition of the wildlife population.

This data will be used to guide planning for future game management. Bobcats, turkeys and bears are protected species within the areas and are not legal game.

Watch weather

Know the weather. Always check on the weather conditions in the area you intend to go into before leaving home on a boat trip. Weather changes rapidly and respects no one.
